Kuhn Sent to Prison for 2½ to 5 Years

BUND LEADER FORFEITS U. S. CITIZENSHIP

Naturalization Automatically Cancelled When N. Y. Judge Orders Imprisonment.

CALLED 'RABBLE ROUSER'

Gets Sentence on One Count of Larceny, Two of Forgery; Appeal Indicated.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Fritz Kuhn, fuehrer of the German-American bund, lost his American citizenship today when Judge James G. Wallace sentenced him to state prison for from 2½ to five years.

A maximum of 30 years was within the court's power to impose, based upon the charges upon which a blue ribbon jury had ruled Kuhn guilty.

The sentence automatically cancelled the naturalized citizenship of the bund chief

Judge Wallace termed Kuhn a "rabble rouser" but emphasized that he was being sentenced only for crimes of which he had been convicted by a jury after fair trial.

Kuhn was sentenced on three counts of his five-count conviction. The three counts were one of larceny and two of forgery, all in connection with the so-called "Murray transaction," wherein Kuhn swore he paid, and Attorney James D. C. Murray denied receiving, $500 for Murray's legal work in his behalf in a previous case.

Run Concurrently.

On each of these three counts Kuhn was sentenced to two and a half to five years in Sing Sing, but the sentences were specified to run concurrently. On the other two counts on which Kuhn was convicted, grand larceny in connection with payment of moving expenses on the furniture of Mrs. Florence Camp, sentence was suspended.

Thus, if Kuhn's sentence is upheld on an expected appeal, he is expected to serve approximately

Talking Doll Has Part In Children's Christmas Serial

A Christmas serial for children. That's what "Santa and the Talking Doll" is. The story started yesterday in The News-Journal but a synopsis is provided with today's installment so children can pick up the story without losing any of this delightful fantasy.

It's all about a doll who comes alive at midnight each night and can breathe, talk and move until dawn when she becomes a doll again and must stand motionless until the next midnight.

Then, too, there's Eric, the son of Lightning, who has a great many adventures in the story. And of course, it's about Santa Claus too, his wife, his workshop, his helpers and all the others.

The story will appear daily in The News-Journal, except on Sundays, until Saturday, Dec. 23. Children can cut out and paste in a scrapbook each day's installment of "Santa and the Talking Doll" with the illustrations which appear with each day's chapter. Today's chapter will be found on page 8.

Tire Workers Get $55,000 Yule Bonus

1,725 to Share In Annual Payment; Firm to Enter Bicycle Tire Field.

Santa Claus clucked to his reindeer, drew a bead on the plant of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company and headed for that busy factory today with a $55,000 Christmas gift.

Santa Claus in this case is George W. Stephens, president of the company, who announced today that the company would pay a bonus—an annual undertaking in recent years with the company—to its 1,725 employes.

Of that number 1,600 are employed at the Mansfield plant of the company. The bonus payment will be made on Dec. 15.

Beside announcing payment of the bonus—larger this year by $5,000 than it was a year ago—Stephens made several other announcements
Among them were:

Introduces New Lines.

That the company would introduce in 1940 several new sizes of tires and a premium quality line for passenger cars, featuring new safety features;

That the company would enter the bicycle tire manufacturing field. Heretofore, the company has manufactured tires for the automobile market exclusively.

And that the company, bringing to a close a year that had seen increased production, increased capacity and increased employment, saw no reason to look for a let-down in the future.

Production of tires in 1939 is expected to total 2,500,000 tires (about 9,000 a day, based on a five-day week), Stephens said. That is "considerably" above the 1938 total, he said.

"This increased production resulted in an increased payroll of about $550,000. It was made possible by the expenditure during the year of approximately $275,000 on new buildings, machinery and equipment. We have drawn practically all of our additional help from Mansfield and vicinity, doing our part to absorb as many as possible of the local unemployed," Stephens said.

"We are happy to have been able during this year to increase our sales to the extent we did," he went on, "since this enabled us to operate at practically full pro-

Wright, Ambassador to Cuba, Stricken in Havana.

(By Associated Press)

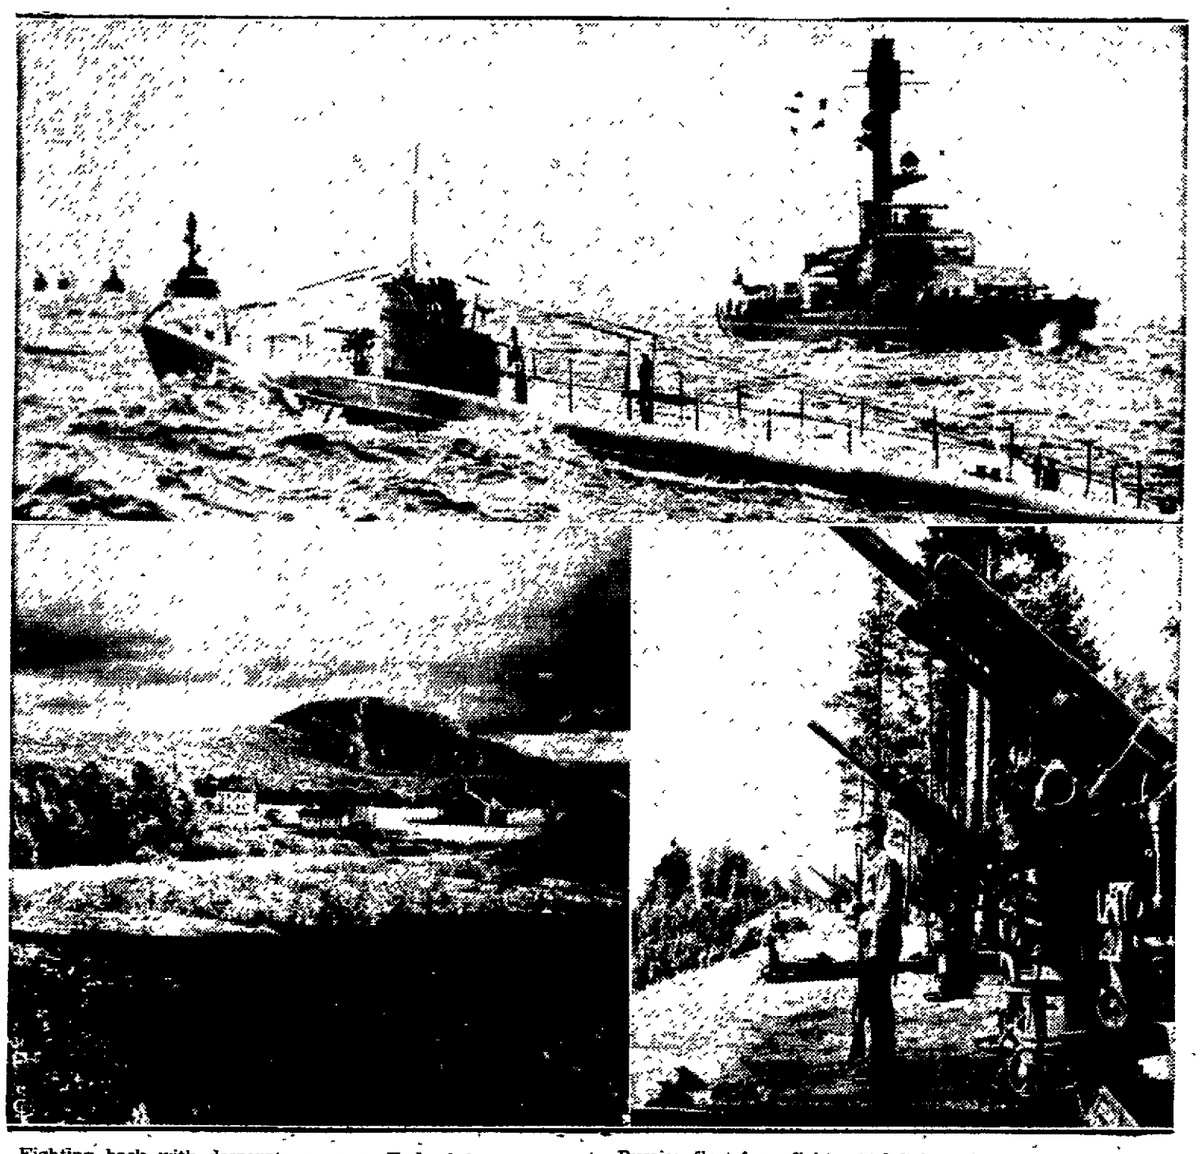
HAVANA—J. Butler Wright, 62, United States ambassador to Cuba, died late last night at the Anglo-American hospital, two days after undergoing an operation for a pancreatic ailment.

Consul General Coert DuBois announced the body would be sent to Washington Thursday, probably aboard a United States warship. Funeral services will be held in the National Cathedral in Washington.

Born at Irvington-on-Hudson, N. Y., Oct. 18, 1877, Wright was educated at the Lawrenceville school and at Princeton university.

In 1909, he entered the diplomatic service as secretary of the American legation at Tegucigalpa, Honduras, and subsequently went to Brussels as legation secretary.

Why Finns Are No Pushover for Invaders



Fighting back with desperate courage, Finland has proven anything but the pushover Russia's invading hordes may have expected the little Baltic country to be. Top view shows the small but highly efficient Finnish navy reported seeking the Russian fleet for a fight. At left is a view of the rugged terrain (around Petsamo, Finland) which has proven to be a great obstacle to the invaders. At the right are a few of Finland's many powerful anti-aircraft guns which have already shot down many Russian planes, Finns claim.

3,500 WILL VOTE ON UNION CHOICE

NLRB to Hold Westinghouse Poll Between Employes' Group and CIO.

A secret ballot election to determine a collective bargaining agency for about 3,500 employes of the Mansfield Westinghouse plant was ordered today by the National Labor Relations board at Cleveland.

The election, which will be held within 30 days, is expected to determine whether the company workers want to be represented by the Westinghouse Employes' association, the CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, or neither.

The Westinghouse Employes' association, an independent union, petitioned for sole bargaining rights and then asked to be placed on the ballot, NLRB officials said.

The board denied the request of the A. F. of L. International Association of Machinists that tool and die makers and maintenance machinists be constituted a separate unit.

"There was no showing that the International Association of Machinists represented any of the company's employes," the board found.

The order ruled that "the hourly paid employes exclusive of supervisors, clerical employes, engineers, tool designers, draftsmen, time-study employes and policemen constitute a unit appropriate for collective bargaining."

Findings of fact stated the United Electrical Workers began a campaign at the Mansfield plant in 1937. Shortly after that the independent association began to organize. In January, 1939, the association requested the company to recognize it for exclusive bargaining. The company declined pending labor board action.

Jenkins' Friends Here Ask for 'Square Deal'

Mansfielders Start Petitions Asking Sherwood To Shun Politics As Ex-O. S. R. Head Is Suspended.

Mansfield friends of Thomas C. Jenkins, superintendent of the London prison farm, who is under fire and suspended for 30 days, were circulating petitions today asking State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood to "give Jenkins a square deal."

The petitions were sponsored by several employes of the Ohio state reformatory, formerly associated with Jenkins here. Telegrams were sent to Sherwood by prominent Masons.

John H. Finefrock, one of those who sent wires, said Mansfield friends of Jenkins asked only that he be given a "square deal." Many of these friends believe, he said the veteran prison official was a victim of state politics, and point to his excellent record at the Mansfield reformatory for more than 31 years.

"We believe Jenkins should not be condemned before he has had a hearing, and that until he has been heard—fairly and without political interference — his friends should stand by him," Finefrock said.

Sherwood suspended Jenkins for 30 days yesterday for "disciplinary reasons" in order to give the latter an opportunity to resign.

100,000 IDLE

Coal Surplus Keeps Pennsy Anthracite Mines Closed.

SCRANTON, Pa. —(AP)— Pennsylvania's anthracite mines were closed for a second day today—with nearly 100,000 men idle and the prospect that the holiday might extend the rest of the week to pare down the hard coal surplus.

The surplus problem brought miners and operators into conferences yesterday at New York and Philadelphia.

Following the New York conference of operators, at which no announcement was made, operators at Scranton were informed it had been agreed not to reopen the mines this week.

SEEK TO EASE RELIEF CRISIS

Cleveland, Toledo Officials Fear 'Disaster'; Renew Demand on Bricker.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—Officials strove today to save Ohio's $20,000,000-a-year relief business from a bankruptcy of disaster and despair.

In Toledo, one of the cities most harried by a shortage of funds for the needy, City Manager George G. Schoonmaker acknowledged:

"Officials quite frankly have been holding their breath for fear some disaster might break out here."

Cleveland, preparing to mortgage future tax collections to ease its grave situation, looked to the federal government's WPA for additional aid.

Booed by a section of spectators at a Cleveland council meeting last night, Mayor Harold H. Burton renewed his demand that Gov. John W. Bricker summon the legislature into special session to deal with the crisis.

This demand, voiced for several

Nankin Postmaster Row Heads For Decision By Roosevelt

The postmaster at Nankin, a village of 250 population in northern Richland county, today was the center of a controversy which President Roosevelt may be called upon to settle, a dispatch from Washington said.

The "tempest-in-a-teapot" involves the appointment of Owens S. Sharick to the postmastership over two applicants who ranked above him in a civil service examination.

Political observers see it as having far-reaching repercussions in the never-ceasing conflict between civil service and political forces over postmaster appointments.

The controversy started when one of the rejected candidates for the postmaster's job complained to Congressman William A. Ashbrook of Johnstown, who represents the 17th district, including Ashland and Richland counties.

Congressman Ashbrook was reported to have written a letter in reply that Sharick was named because he was a more active Democrat. A civil service investigator found the letter, the Washington dispatch said and the commission ruled Sharick's appointment invalid because it allegedly was based on political considerations.

The commission sent its decision to the comptroller general who stopped Sharick's pay and ordered

Pace-Setting Westinghouse Distributors Receive Awards

Some 150 men who represent nearly $100,000,000 in retail sales for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company split up a lot of hard-won prizes last night and today learned more about the 1940 models they will sell.

They are Westinghouse district representatives, here for the annual distributors' conference which opened yesterday and closes tonight. They are the men responsible for sales of Mansfield-made Westinghouse appliances that keeps a factory employing better than 3,000 persons busy most of the year.

For their work in the past year they won prizes that ranged from desk sets to portable bars and from wrist watches to golf clubs.

Prizes were awarded last night in the Westinghouse auditorium by Frank Kohnstamm, sales manager, who sounded the company theme for next year—"Faster in '40."

Next year is expected to be one of the biggest years in the merchandising division's history, Kohnstamm told the distributors. Because of the anticipated sales increase, the division's entire program has been stepped up—with an increased advertising appropriation and a more ag-

Neighbors Act As Reds Reject League Parley

Norway, Sweden, Denmark To Confer On Means To End War; Alarmed Swedes Call 40,000 More To Colors In Preparedness; Battles Rage On.

(By Associated Press)

Embattled Finland's plight under Russian invasion today stirred her alarmed Scandinavian neighbors to new peace efforts and preparations against war.

Sweden called about 40,000 more men to the colors bringing her armed forces to 150,000.

Norway invited foreign ministers of Sweden and Denmark to a conference Thursday on ways of bringing peace between Russia and Finland. Both accepted.

Rejecting participation in a League of Nations meeting on Finland's appeal for arbitration, Russia reported her troops were continuing into Finland from south and north. Russian lines were said to have penetrated 30 miles on the Karelian isthmus and 16 miles below Petsamo fjord, Finland's Arctic outlet.

Russian bombing operations were renewed after a lapse because of bad weather.

Finland rushed fortification of the Aaland islands to keep open sea communications with Sweden, a vital route if any aid were to be given Finland by Scandinavian nations.

Moscow's refusal to take part in the Geneva meeting, as well as rejection of a Swedish overture in behalf of Finland for peace, reiterated that Russia does not recognize the Helsinki government and intends to have relations only with the Communist-inspired "people's" regime set up in a border village at Terijoki.

Premier Molotov, construing the Geneva bid as an insult, denied that Finland's delegate to the League of Nations spoke for the Finnish people and said that "the Soviet Union is not in a state of war with Finland."

Want Reds Ousted.

League of Nations circles in Geneva expressed the opinion that Russia faces the choice of quitting the league or being kicked out. Argentina and Uruguay have proposed that the Soviet Union be ousted because of the invasion of Finland. Indications of support for that proposal have come from other South American league members.

The third anti-Soviet demonstration in four days occurred in Rome, as throngs cheered outside the Finnish legation. They were prevented by troops from gathering before the Soviet embassy.

While the Finnish-Russian conflict diverted world attention from the stalemated western front, Britain counted new maritime losses, one of them inflicted by the German "pocket battleship" Admiral Scheer in the south Atlantic.

The 10,086-ton refrigerator ship Doric Star, carrying meats from New Zealand and Australia, was the victim credited to the German warship.

Sources close to the British government indicated that Prime Minister Chamberlain would accede to Labor and Liberal party demands

CHILLED: Red Invasion Seen Drawing Duce Closer To Allies

By DEWITT MACKENZIE, Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer.

Russia's operations in Finland are putting a heavy strain on the Berlin-Rome axis.

Few things were better calculated to draw Signor Mussolini away from his German affiliation and toward the Anglo-French camp than Herr Hitler's pledge of brotherhood to Comrade Stalin and the resulting Soviet thrusts for power.

In this sense the ill wind which is sweeping Finland is in fact probably blowing good to the Allied cause.

While Hitler has gambled hugely by flipping over his shoulder the anti-Communist policy which had been a main stay of Nazism, Il Duce of the protruding jaw hasn't budged an inch from the historic stand he took when he founded Fascism to combat Bolshevism in Italy at the end of the World war.

The anti-Soviet and pro-Finnish public demonstrations which are proceeding in Italy, while Fascist troops guard the Russian embassy in Rome, are an indication that Mussolini is smart in judging the temper of his people. He keeps his finger on their pulse all the time. He is not taking the chance that Hitler is, in dynamiting a principle as a matter of expediency.

With each succeeding step the Muscovites have made to extend their influence into eastern Europe, the Baltic and the Balkans, Mussolini has appeared to grow colder toward his Nazi partner and hotter against the Bolshevists.

Indications today in responsible Rome circles are that the Fascist chieftain has determined to keep Russia out of the Balkans at all costs, since he regards this as his special sphere of influence.

This brings the famous Italian

WAR AT SEA: Second British Freighter Sunk Since Blockade

(By International News Service)

LONDON—The British freighter Horsted, a 1,670-ton vessel, was torpedoed and sunk in the North sea today with a reported loss of eight members of its crew.

The Horsted was the second British ship attacked by German craft since the British program for seizure of German exports went into effect yesterday.

Thirteen survivors and three bodies of crew members were landed at a British port. Five others were believed missing.

Belief that the 10,000-ton German pocket battleship Admiral Scheer has transferred her operations from the Indian ocean to the south Atlantic was expressed in London today following the reported sinking of the large British freighter Doric Star.

The 10,086-ton freighter was shelled and believed to have been sent to the bottom by a German naval raider en route to England from Australia with a crew of 70 officers and men. The vessel had accommodation for six passengers, but no passengers were aboard.

An admiralty announcement said:

"Information has been received to the effect that the Doric Star was attacked by a German raider. As no further information has been received, it is presumed that she was sunk."

The attack on the Doric Star climaxed the first day of the Allied "two-way" blockade against Germany, involving seizure of German exports.

Reports Seeing Ruth Judd Staring in Window of Home

WOMAN SPURS SEARCH FOR TRUNK KILLER

Tells Posse She Awoke to See 'Tiger Woman' Looking at Her From Outside.

(By United Press)

PHOENIX, Ariz.—The hunt for the maniacal murderess, Winnie Ruth Judd, quickened today when a suburban resident reported to the sheriff's office that she awoke to see Winnie staring at her through a window.

The Tiger murderess fled after leering through the window, the woman said.

The home where Winnie Ruth made her most recent appearance is about two miles from the state asylum she fled Sunday night. It is in the district that was the crazed killer's "hide-out" during her first six-day escape in October.

Fear was heightened among residents after hospital attendants said they believed Mrs. Judd carried a razor with her when she escaped.

Citizens had slept little behind locked doors. Winnie Ruth, at large for a second time in six weeks, was believed roaming a hop ahead of bloodhounds, hungry and subject to re-occurring "spells" of homicidal impulses, somewhere in or near the city.

Near Business District.

Hounds from the state prison at Florence had followed her trail at one time late yesterday to a street corner within five blocks of the main Phoenix business district. Last night they ran baying through back alleys and over vacant lots in residential districts.

Hospital officials believed the "Tiger Woman" had taken the razor missed only last night from the prison barber shop where she often worked, to frighten householders whom she might be obliged to rob, rather than as a weapon to commit suicide or to murder. But this belief did not comfort citizens.

Sheriff Lon Jordan believed Winnie Ruth was hiding somewhere inside the city, sleeping in some vacant house or barn and stealing food from pantries and orange groves. She already has raided two pantries.

Mrs. Judd spent seven quiet years in the asylum after killing her roommates, Hedvig Samuelson and Agnes Le Roi, and shipping their dismembered bodies to Los Angeles in two trunks and a hatbox.

Oberlin College Gets $500,000 In Stock Dividends

OBERLIN—(AP)—Aluminum will pay Oberlin college an estimated $500,000 in dividends.

The college became interested financially in the bright, shiny metal through a benefactor who died 25 years ago.

Charles Martin Hall, Oberlin graduate and inventor of aluminum machinery, left one-third of his 25 per cent share in Aluminum Corporation of America to the college when he died in 1914. Oberlin became regarded generally as the second largest holder of the corporation's stock.

A $6-a-share dividend on common plus distribution of one share of Niagara & Hudson Power Corp. common for each three shares of aluminum common was voted by directors.

Clayton K. Fauver, president of the First National Bank of Oberlin, estimated the total value of the college's holdings plus cash into which other aluminum stock has been converted "runs between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000."

In addition to his bequest, Hall is commemorated at Oberlin by a life-size statue in the Severance Chemical laboratory building.

Police have a lot of extra-curricular duties to perform. A Mansfield mother of a small son appealed to police to help her solve a problem. She lives on a highly traveled street and she had kept the youngster from playing in the street by telling him that police would pick him up if they caught him playing there. Having a healthy regard for "the law" as portrayed by a blue uniform and shiny buttons, the boy kept off the street—until last week. An officer came by and the youngster asked point blank if he would be arrested for playing in the street and when he was assured that he wouldn't, he so informed his mother. And now she has asked Police Chief Bates to have an officer stop by and warn the youngster to keep off the street—or else.

DEM BOSS GOES BACK ON STAND

Pennsylvania Chairman Faces New Cross-Quiz on Charges of Conspiracy, Blackmail.

(By Associated Press)

HARRISBURG, Pa.—David L. Lawrence, Pennsylvania's Democratic chairman, was summoned to the witness stand today for further cross-examination in his trial on charges of blackmail and conspiracy—charges he has categorically denied.

The former secretary of the commonwealth yesterday declared untrue accusations that he conspired with the late John Verona, Pittsburgh politician, to have the state favor the Pioneer Materials company in the award of gravel contracts, and that he received $5,000 blackmail from the firm's president, Spurgeon Bowser.

Awaiting turns to testify were Mrs. Lawrence and their five children.

The defendant's own appearance on the stand climaxed a day that saw several other top-flight Democrats during the "little New Deal" of former Governor George H. Earle appear as defense witnesses—U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey, Matthew McCloskey, Philadelphia contractor, and Edward W. Prendergast, Earle's former secretary.

Lawrence corroborated Bowser's testimony that Lawrence asked him about his story to the grand jury that later indicted Lawrence and other Democrats. Lawrence said his action was prompted by the thought that he was "being framed."

As for Bowser's statement that Lawrence demanded he make a $10,000 campaign contribution, Lawrence declared: "That's an absolute untruth."

ASHBROOK NAMES 4 TO DIRECT '40 CENSUS TAKING IN DISTRICT

Congressman William A. Ashbrook today announced the appointment of four persons to direct the 1940 census taking in the 17th congressional district, which includes Mansfield.

Named were Donald H. Harper, Mt. Vernon, district supervisor; Albert W. Strater, 409 Lexington avenue, Mansfield, assistant supervisor, and Miss Mary Arminda Bittinger, Ashland, and Mrs. Carey C. McKinney of Vanatta, clerks.

Nearly 250 other appointments including 243 census enumerators and the position of stenographer are still to be filled. Ashbrook said he probably will not make the appointments until early in January.

Headquarters for the census in this district will be in the Mt. Vernon postoffice. Actual work on the decennial enumeration will begin early in 1940.

A business and industrial census is to be made first and the count of the population will probably start about April 1, according to present plans. The entire job is expected to be completed in about nine months.

The six counties in the district are Richland, Knox, Ashland, Coshocton, Licking and Delaware.

Strater, a life insurance agent, has been treasurer of the Richland county fair board for the past several years.

Ashbrook said the position of supervisor pays $2,000; assistant $1,800. Clerks are paid $100 a month and stenographers $125 monthly.

Mt. Vernon was selected as census headquarters, Ashbrook said, because of the limited quarters at the post office here.

BEES DISEASED

247 of County's 863 Apiaries Quarantined by State.

Recent state inspection of Richland county's 863 bee colonies revealed that 247, or 28.6 per cent of them, are infested with Foul Brood, a disease that destroys bees, a report from State Apiarist C. N. Reese showed today.

The county's bee colonies are in 160 apiaries, 66 of which were quarantined because of the disease. The inspection was financed here by a $250 appropriation by county commissioners.

Crawford county had the highest percentage of Foul Brood infestation of any county in the state, the report showed. In that county 40.2 per cent of the colonies are infected. In Ashland county the infestation is 20.8 per cent; Holmes county, 14.2 per cent; Huron, 1 per cent, and Morrow, 8.6 per cent.

Infestation throughout the state has been reduced to 4.6 per cent from 14.94 per cent in 1931, Reese said.

BEGIN PAYING OFF AMERICAN DAMAGE CLAIMS

Tokyo Indicates Dislike for Use of Trade Treaty as 'Club' to Mould Policies.

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO—Looking toward better relations with the United States, Japan is paying off numerous claims for damages to American property in China, authoritative sources disclosed today.

They said Foreign Minister Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura informed United States Ambassador Joseph C. Crew in a two-hour conference yesterday that Japan was prepared to settle such claims.

These sources declared, however, the Japanese disliked use of the U. S.-Japanese trade treaty as a "club" for influencing policies in China.

The treaty, denounced by the United States in July, is due to expire Jan. 26.

It was said Grew and Nomura temporarily shelved discussion of such problems as the open door in the Orient and the nine-power treaty, Japan being primarily interested in bridging the period immediately following the treaty's expiration.

For this reason, many long-standing American damage claims for bombings in China are being compensated. It was understood reliably the government soon would release a compilation of evidences of Japan's good intentions, enumerating the cases and amounts paid.

The same sources denied reports Nomura had told Grew a rapprochement was impossible under threats of economic pressure, or that Japan was displeased over the reported strengthening of the American Pacific Fleet.

The foreign minister merely stated, they said, that if America placed an embargo on exports to Japan, commodities must be sought elsewhere.

Observers said Japan at present was unable to go beyond specific incidents, as her future policies respecting all third powers in China must be conditioned by the sort and scope of government to be organized in China under Wang Ching-Wei.

DIES AT AGE 92

Francis Brown of Ashland Was Retired Farmer.

ASHLAND — Francis Marion Brown, 92, retired farmer and a native of Richland county, died last evening at Samaritan hospital after more than four months illness.

He was one of the oldest residents of the city and had been a member of the Ashland Methodist church for more than 70 years.

He was born in Weller township, near Olivesburg, Jan. 26, 1847. His wife, two daughters, nine brothers and sisters preceded him in death.

For the past five years he had resided with his son, Herbert Brown of Ashland. Another son, Royal A. Brown, also of Ashland, five grandchildren and two great grandchildren also survive.

FAIR ENOUGH!

'God-Stuff' Promoter Sets Writer 'Right' But He Still Can't See It

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Dr. Frank B. Robinson of Moscow, Idaho, has been in our midst briefly and has endeavored to set your correspondent right on some matters pertaining to the God business which is enjoying a boom at the present writing.

Dr. Robinson, who answers to the name of Doc, is the man who advertises that he was a box-car bum but talked with God and speedily acquired a magnificent home with a pipe organ, a Cadillac limousine for himself, other cars, diminuendo, for his wife and son, "a lot of life insurance" and a bank account sufficient to withstand the tap of a check in five figures.

He charges $20 per head for a correspondence course in his copyrighted religious philosophy, called psychiana, and sicks a collection agency on deadbeats, backsliders and flunks who try to gyp him of his payments. But he insists he does not desire to make money out of Psychiana. His attempt to set your correspondent right thus leaves your correspondent's confusion worse confounded, but perhaps you can figure it out.

The Doc expressed disbelief in several current competitors in the God business, particularly G. W. Ballard of Los Angeles known as The Great I Am. Mr. Ballard's widely scattered believers labor under an impression—which may be correct, for all your correspondent knows to the contrary—that he is the reincarnation of George Washington and that his wife is the reincarnation of Joan of Arc.

They also shun onions and garlic as being offensive to the ascended masters. The least implausible of all their tenets, some of which are rather trying, they abhor the color red for the evil vibrations which it projects into the world but nevertheless vow allegiance to the American flag and wear the same, red stripes and all, on their lapels.

Doc Robinson says he doesn't believe a word of Mr. Ballard's revelations, insisting they are against reason, and adds that, anyway, he can't make head nor tail of the I Am religion. He refers to various of these new philosophies and faiths, including his own, as "stuff." That is to say, he speaks of "My Stuff" and Ballard's "stuff;" and Father Divine's "stuff."

In speaking of his stuff, Doc. Robinson's tone is one of proprietary pride and jealousy, like that of a radio comic with a prosperous, surefire specialty who is wary of pirates and poachers. He says Ballard called on him when he, Ballard, "was just starting out." "I told him I didn't mind," the Doc says, "just so he doesn't infringe my copyright. I just warned him to keep off my stuff."

Nevertheless, the Doc insists that Ballard's stuff in parts is very similar to his stuff, even though he can't make head nor tail of Ballard's stuff. "I am not interested in saving souls," says he, that is orthodox. I want to raise the mental and spiritual sights of the people. And if I didn't copyright my stuff I would have every faker in the country using it. It would be poor business, in the first place, if I didn't copyright it, because I have got a religious philosoophy that is a stem-winder.

There is no legal way to stop a faker. With a guy like that all you can do is just let them alone and they'll blow up."

Regarding the uncommercial spirit in which he proceeds to raise the mental and spiritual sights of his fellow men and the resort to force, as it were, to compel payment for his courses in this consoling and enriching philosophy, Doc Robinson was unable to turn the flank or penetrate the center of your correspondent's obtuseness.

Altruist though he claims to be, he nevertheless does not release his secret of happiness and material wealth freely to human kind, but restricts it to those who can undertake to pay $20. He frankly states in his advertising copy that he requires enough money above expenses "to grow." That is an exact way of putting it, and taken with the Doc's rather ostentatious description of his own wealthy condition, the mansion, the organ, the cars, bank roll and all, it leaves your correspondent as earnestly puzzled as before.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Charlie McCarthy, at work, is becoming an exclusive, retiring fellow. He has taken the veil.

The veil is of rubberized green silk. He wears it during those tiresome sessions under the lights when his far from wooden art is quiescent but his presence is required.

That fellow Bergen, now, has a stand-in. He can sit solemnly on the sidelines munching a sandwich and an apple and drinking a cup of hot brew for his lunch, but Charlie just has to give, and give, and give.

The cocky little dope never speaks to me, so I asked Bergen. "It's to protect his make-up," he began. "So many people handle him."

And then he spilled the rest of the story. "The amateur ventriloquists," he said. "The set is full of 'em. And then there are the ones who are always talking to Charlie, expecting an answer. I like to talk back, but I've got to save my throat. With the headpiece—see?—he doesn't invite conversation."

I think the latter is the real reason, and the make-up is an excuse. The people who talk to Charlie prefer funny answers. They say, in effect: "Be funny, Bergen. You're a comedian, ain't ya?" Maybe that's why comics generally look so glum.

Bergen is going to take a week off in January to visit Mexico City. With Charlie? "With-OUT!" said Bergen. "He's as sick of me as I am of him!"

But they're still good friends, of course?

Ran smack into an intellectual divertissement of the stars on the set of "Buck Benny Rides Again," where Buck—eye-killing in pink silk shirt, sky-blue jeans, green neckerchief, 10-gallon hat and cowboy boots—was doing a scene with Virginia Dale.

The game—played offstage, of course—runs like this:

Ellen Drew says "Me pants, animals apple. Guess who?"

Deep cogitation all around. The answer: "You jean(s), Zoo-core," which plain as anything means Eugene Zukor.

Harry Lee, Benny's stand-in, offers "Calm, Wednesday halfback" to be translated as Gale Sondergaard, see?).

Lee also perpetrates "Retainer retainer, gate speak" or "Fee-fee Door-say," which gives you an idea. Andy Devine breaks up the session with the strictly unethical "Blank shell, rough, Cover Up" for Dud-ley Digges. ("When you dig you cover up, don'tcha?" he alibied.)

You wanna play?

"Mae don't feel so good today," somebody said leaving the West set.

"Okay to go in, but don't talk to her," said somebody else. "Mae don't feel so good."

Now who am I to disturb a lady who don't feel so good? I watched her—the old familiar Mae with a bustle—taking over a rough frontier schoolroom in Schoolmarm Anne Nagel's absence.

On the blackboard were chalked these lines: "I am a good man. I am a good boy. I am a good girl." One guess, now—which line is Mae going to play with?

for a secret session of parliament next week to talk about war supplies.

Despite further shipping losses, authoritative sources indicated Britain has a new secret weapon which is "very satisfactory" in combatting German magnetic mines.

King George VI followed the World war example of his father, George V, with a visit to British troops in France.

Artillery fire enlivened an otherwise dull day on the western front, but there were no military developments of any magnitude.

Nazi Artillery Opens Up on French.

PARIS—(INS)—Short German artillery barrages centering on the Blies and Moselle river areas of the western front hammered French positions today.

At the same time the Germans launched four raids against French advance outposts in the Wissembourg sector seeking prisoners for information. All the raids were halted and the Germans suffered heavy losses, according to reports received in Paris.

The raids began at 2 a. m., and lasted until dawn, each of them creeping across the no man's land at the same point. One was blasted by French artillery, another was encircled, the third was cut down by automatic fire and the fourth, failing to attack, carried out a reconnaissance maneuver.

Several deep German air reconnaissance flights were carried out and there was some aerial patrol work along the front, but no air battles developed.

Sweden Calls Troops For 'Wartime' Service.

STOCKHOLM—(AP)—Sweden, in increasing alarm at the extent of the Soviet Russian incursion into Finland, called more troops to the colors today and for the first time acknowledged "partial mobilization."

About 40,000 men, including artillerymen, engineers and commissary detachments, were ordered into service, bringing to about 150,000 the number under arms—as against a normal standing force of 20,000.

The troops are for "wartime service," published notices said. Previous military orders referred only to "preparedness."

The number of Swedes enlisting in volunteer corps for service with the Finns passed 1,000 today, and more than 1,000,000 kronur ($240,000) was subscribed by citizens for their benefit.

Sweden herself, however, continued to direct her efforts toward neutrality, one official informant remarking, "we may be wealthy, but our forces are too small to send to the aid of another country."

Finnish refugees reaching Haparanda, on the Swedish side of the frontier, related today they were machine-gunned by Russian planes which they rushed out to greet near Petsamo in the mistaken belief they were Red Cross craft.

Newspapers and citizens' organizations in Stockholm are gathering clothes and raising funds for the refugees, whose numbers are increasing rapidly.

Russian Bombers Raid Salmijaervi.

KIRKENES, Norway (At the Finnish Frontier)—(AP)—Three Soviet Russian bombers raided Salmijaervi and the nearby area today in a renewal of aerial operations in the war on Finland.

The bombers could be seen from Kirkenes, and detonations reverberated across the border, but it was not learned immediately what damage and casualties resulted.

Properties of the International Nickel company of Canada lie in the Salmijaervi area.

At the same time, reports of continued Russian landings in the Petsamo region, northernmost Finland, about 30 miles east northeast of Salmijaervi, were received.

These reports said Russian warships were observed in Petsamo fjord this morning. These were believed to be convoying troopships bringing troops from the Russian Arctic garrisons of Alexandrovsk, Murmansk and Kola.

It was reported the Russians first attempted to land at Linahamari but failed. Later they were reported landing on both sides of the mouth of Petsamo fjord. The Finns apparently were unable to prevent this, but were believed to be waiting until the invaders reach Petsamo, where strong defense positions have been built. Petsamo is Finland's chief Arctic port.

Strong detachments of Finns were moving northward from Rovaniemi toward Petsamo.

BUND LEADER SENT TO PRISON

one year and eight months with time off for good behavior—if he behaves.

A little paler, a little thinner after a week's confinement in the Tombs, Kuhn took his medicine stoically.

"I don't intend to make a martyr out of this man," the court explained in specifying concurrent service of the term imposed.

The jury debated many hours before finding Kuhn guilty on the Camp charges and the court apparently took cognizance of that hesitancy by suspending sentence.

Kuhn's conviction, a triumph of some degree for the office of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, came as Dewey was preparing to make his first speech for the Republican presidential nomination in Minneapolis.

A year ago Dewey, in his campaign for governor of New York, bitterly attacked Kuhn and the bund.

Pleading for leniency, Kuhn's counsel, Peter A. Sabbatino, rehashed all his trial charges and inferences of political and social persecution.

Sabbatino, whose enthusiasm led him into the field of contempt early in the trial, was told by the court that he must return next Wednesday to be judged for his conduct.

Sabbatino offered an apology for any intemperate remarks he might have made and for action of his offensive to the court. However the court repeated his order.

Judge Wallace during the course of his discussion of the case suggested that action for perjury should be taken against James Wheeler-Hill, secretary of the Bund and Willy Luedtke, a Bund worker.

Prosecutor Herman McCarthy reported that his office was already preparing a case against the two.

Wheeler-Hill's testimony in several appearances on the stand, varied considerably. Luedtke testified that he carried the disputed $500 to Murray's office and was given a receipt by Murray's associate.

Less than a handful of spectators were in court when sentence was passed on Kuhn. Mrs. Elsa Kuhn, the fuehrer's wife who had said she was sticking by him despite the Camp affair, was not one of those present.

As a substitute, Waters said, restocking will be carried on through trapping of excess rabbit crops in game propagation areas.

Dr. R. H. Markwith, state health director, said incomplete records showed 25 cases of tularemia had been reported from 14 counties since the opening of the hunting season, and described the outbreak as "the worst in Ohio history."

Cases listed by counties were: Hamilton, Morrow, Ross, Holmes, Lucas, Fairfield, Summit and Erie, one each; Franklin three; Knox four, Lorain three; Pickaway two, Delaware three and Butler two.

Santa and the TALKING DOLL

by SIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR: Lightning has given a great feast for the fairy world to celebrate the twenty-first birthday of his son who sets out on adventures with a silver flute that will win him friends, and a black opal that will bring him trouble.

CHAPTER TWO

The King of Westphalia.

GREAT buildings crashed about the ears of people the night Lightning gave a birthday party for his son. The arrow of lightning he had hurled at the witch cut through the sky and down to the Kingdom of Westphalia.

Now the King of Westphalia was a very kind king. But he was very lonesome because he was very shy. He found it hard to talk to his pople but often he sent them great baskets of food from the castle.

So this night he sat alone in his castle and mourned that so many of his subjects had lost their homes. But the fairies that lived in his woods flew into his study and lighted on the table nar him.

"Oh, King," they said, "you were chosen among all men to rule this realm. Is it not right then that you comfort your pople tonight?"

"Yes," said the King. "Lead me."

So the fairies led him down the storm wet road to a little tavern where groups of peasants stood with their caps in their hands. Inside he went, and there knelt a strong, young man beside a bench. On it lay his young wife and in her arms was a new baby.

Santa's Advice.

When they saw the King their faces lighted up. "Out of the storm, Sire," said the peasant, "came this little son. Our home is gone, but we are happy."

The King knelt and picked up the child and wrapped it in his red robe. It gurgled and smiled. The King said, "If your home is gone live with me until a new one is built."

So the King and the young peasant and his family went to the castle. There they lived until the peasant's new home was built. But when they left again the King was alone and sad.

The fairies saw, and finally the Fairy Queen visited the King to say "It must be so. Each family has its own hearth stone. None can turn back the dark night hours for a lonely human but that which belongs to him. So we must find some one. We will go to the greatest gift-giver of all, Santa Claus, and ask him for advice."

But when they left again the King was alone and sad.

So the fairies flew up, up, out of the woods and across the sky until they came to a long, low house on a snowy hill where candles burned in the windows. They tapped on a window: once, twice, three times. It opened and there stood Santa, shouting, "Come in, come in."

The Errand.

The fairies fluttered down on his shoulders and he walked with them to his big chair by the fireplace where Mrs. Santa sat knitting and smiling a welcome.

"You have come on some errand," said Santa. "What is it?" So the Queen of Fairies told him about the kind and lonesome King of Westphalia. Santa listened and looked so sympathetic that Mrs. Santa worried for fear the fairies had made him sad. But when the fairies had finished their story Santa looked as though he had already made up his mind.

He said, "This will be a delicate task to make theWestphalian King a gift that will really melt away his loneliness. But once long ago I tried my hand at a doll for just such another person.

"She could learn as humans learn—poetry, music and stories. And at midnight she could talk to her owner, and listen. She was a great comfort because she was awake when everyone else slept. I shall try to make another such doll tomorrow. And at midnight you may fly off with her to your King."

him to reimburse the government for salary already received.

Postmaster General James A. Farley stepped in here and asserted it would be "most unfair" to remove Sharick from office. He argued the postoffice department did not call upon a congressman for a recommendation but merely states it will "consider any representations" which the congressman may care to make "regarding the character or residence of the eligibles."

Farley asked the civil service board to review the case. The commission did so and reaffirmed its previous decision—that Sharick's appointment violates the commission rules.

Another complication entered when the comptroller general's office tried to shut off Sharick's salary. It was found that in small postoffices, the postmaster pays himself by withholding his salary from the postal receipts. Sharick continued to draw his compensation and the comptroller general could not stop him.

Thereupon the department of justice was asked to bring legal action to stop Sharick's pay and recover the back salary. Sharick was appointed April 7, 1938. The justice department ruled, however, that it could not enter a suit against Sharick because the action would be indefensible.

Sharick, who was appointed over Delos E. Funk and Robert Forteny, first and second civil service eligibles, receives about $700 a year since Nankin is a fourth class postoffice.

into a new role. Mussolini as party to an Italo-German alliance of convenience was a Samson shorn of his locks. Mussolini as a more or less free agent again is a figure at vast importance in the European upheaval.

As an independent neutral Il Duce undoubtedly exercises greater influence than if he actually were a combatant and definitely committed to one side. He can throw his weight where he will, and since that is formidable but untried it commands the respect which the unknown so often does exact.

The question of whether Mussolini may slash all ties with Hitler and actually join England and France against Germany is one of the big and important "ifs" of the moment. It is especially vital in view of the activities of the Russo-German combine.

Il Duce is the only one who might answer the query about his future affiliation, and it's possible that even he couldn't give a definite statement right now. However, the belief is very general in Europe that he has been leaning toward the allies for some time and it certainly would cause no surprise to see him cast his lot with them.

Reports Seeing Ruth Judd Staring in Window of Home

WOMAN SPURS SEARCH FOR TRUNK KILLER

Tells Posse She Awoke to See 'Tiger Woman' Looking at Her From Outside.

(By United Press)

PHOENIX, Ariz.—The hunt for the maniacal murderess, Winnie Ruth Judd, quickened today when a suburban resident reported to the sheriff's office that she awoke to see Winnie staring at her through a window.

The Tiger murderess fled after leering through the window, the woman said.

The home where Winnie Ruth made her most recent appearance is about two miles from the state asylum she fled Sunday night. It is in the district that was the crazed killer's "hide-out" during her first six-day escape in October.

Fear was heightened among residents after hospital attendants said they believed Mrs. Judd carried a razor with her when she escaped.

Citizens had slept little behind locked doors. Winnie Ruth, at large for a second time in six weeks, was believed roaming a hop ahead of bloodhounds, hungry and subject to re-occurring "spells" of homicidal impulses, somewhere in or near the city.

Near Business District.

Hounds from the state prison at Florence had followed her trail at one time late yesterday to a street corner within five blocks of the main Phoenix business district. Last night they ran baying through back alleys and over vacant lots in residential districts.

Hospital officials believed the "Tiger Woman" had taken the razor missed only last night from the prison barber shop where she often worked, to frighten householders whom she might be obliged to rob, rather than as a weapon to commit suicide or to murder. But this belief did not comfort citizens.

Sheriff Lon Jordan believed Winnie Ruth was hiding somewhere inside the city, sleeping in some vacant house or barn and stealing food from pantries and orange groves. She already has raided two pantries.

Mrs. Judd spent seven quiet years in the asylum after killing her roommates, Hedvig Samuelson and Agnes Le Roi, and shipping their dismembered bodies to Los Angeles in two trunks and a hatbox.

Oberlin College Gets $500,000 In Stock Dividends

OBERLIN—(AP)—Aluminum will pay Oberlin college an estimated $500,000 in dividends.

The college became interested financially in the bright, shiny metal through a benefactor who died 25 years ago.

Charles Martin Hall, Oberlin graduate and inventor of aluminum machinery, left one-third of his 25 per cent share in Aluminum Corporation of America to the college when he died in 1914. Oberlin became regarded generally as the second largest holder of the corporation's stock.

A $6-a-share dividend on common plus distribution of one share of Niagara & Hudson Power Corp. common for each three shares of aluminum common was voted by directors.

Clayton K. Fauver, president of the First National Bank of Oberlin, estimated the total value of the college's holdings plus cash into which other aluminum stock has been converted "runs between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000."

In addition to his bequest, Hall is commemorated at Oberlin by a life-size statue in the Severance Chemical laboratory building.

Up and Down THE STREET

Richard Sparks, 11-A class president at Senior high school, and one of the 18 Mansfield boys who attended the annual Ohio Hi-Y conference at Youngstown last week-end, was pressed into service as an entertainer for one of the several dinner groups held in various Youngstown churches. Sparks, a pianist, was asked to furnish the accompaniment for group singing by over 200 boys, as well as playing a short program at each of the dinner sessions.

Police have a lot of extra-curricular duties to perform. A Mansfield mother of a small son appealed to police to help her solve a problem. She lives on a highly traveled street and she had kept the youngster from playing in the street by telling him that police would pick him up if they caught him playing there. Having a healthy regard for "the law" as portrayed by a blue uniform and shiny buttons, the boy kept off the street—until last week. An officer came by and the youngster asked point blank if he would be arrested for playing in the street and when he was assured that he wouldn't, he so informed his mother. And now she has asked Police Chief Bates to have an officer stop by and warn the youngster to keep off the street—or else.

Miss Baumgardner is active in various university activities and is a senior at the school.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe was ready today to distribute his annual Christmas present to dog owners—two rivets for attaching tags to their dogs' collars. Every December the auditor purchases thousands of the rivets, puts two in a little gift envelope and gives them to every purchaser of a dog tag. This year he has a supply of 10,000 rivets, which is a lot of rivets when packed in 5,000 little yellow envelopes. On the envelopes are the words: "Compliments of Norman L. Wolfe."

DEM BOSS GOES BACK ON STAND

Pennsylvania Chairman Faces New Cross-Quiz on Charges of Conspiracy, Blackmail.

(By Associated Press)

HARRISBURG, Pa.—David L. Lawrence, Pennsylvania's Democratic chairman, was summoned to the witness stand today for further cross-examination in his trial on charges of blackmail and conspiracy—charges he has categorically denied.

The former secretary of the commonwealth yesterday declared untrue accusations that he conspired with the late John Verona, Pittsburgh politician, to have the state favor the Pioneer Materials company in the award of gravel contracts, and that he received $5,000 blackmail from the firm's president, Spurgeon Bowser.

Awaiting turns to testify were Mrs. Lawrence and their five children.

The defendant's own appearance on the stand climaxed a day that saw several other top-flight Democrats during the "little New Deal" of former Governor George H. Earle appear as defense witnesses—U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey, Matthew McCloskey, Philadelphia contractor, and Edward W. Prendergast, Earle's former secretary.

Lawrence corroborated Bowser's testimony that Lawrence asked him about his story to the grand jury that later indicted Lawrence and other Democrats. Lawrence said his action was prompted by the thought that he was "being framed."

As for Bowser's statement that Lawrence demanded he make a $10,000 campaign contribution, Lawrence declared: "That's an absolute untruth."

ASHBROOK NAMES 4 TO DIRECT '40 CENSUS TAKING IN DISTRICT

Congressman William A. Ashbrook today announced the appointment of four persons to direct the 1940 census taking in the 17th congressional district, which includes Mansfield.

Named were Donald H. Harper, Mt. Vernon, district supervisor; Albert W. Strater, 409 Lexington avenue, Mansfield, assistant supervisor, and Miss Mary Arminda Bittinger, Ashland, and Mrs. Carey C. McKinney of Vanatta, clerks.

Nearly 250 other appointments including 243 census enumerators and the position of stenographer are still to be filled. Ashbrook said he probably will not make the appointments until early in January.

Headquarters for the census in this district will be in the Mt. Vernon postoffice. Actual work on the decennial enumeration will begin early in 1940.

A business and industrial census is to be made first and the count of the population will probably start about April 1, according to present plans. The entire job is expected to be completed in about nine months.

The six counties in the district are Richland, Knox, Ashland, Coshocton, Licking and Delaware.

Strater, a life insurance agent, has been treasurer of the Richland county fair board for the past several years.

Ashbrook said the position of supervisor pays $2,000; assistant $1,800. Clerks are paid $100 a month and stenographers $125 monthly.

Mt. Vernon was selected as census headquarters, Ashbrook said, because of the limited quarters at the post office here.

BEES DISEASED

247 of County's 863 Apiaries Quarantined by State.

Recent state inspection of Richland county's 863 bee colonies revealed that 247, or 28.6 per cent of them, are infested with Foul Brood, a disease that destroys bees, a report from State Apiarist C. N. Reese showed today.

The county's bee colonies are in 160 apiaries, 66 of which were quarantined because of the disease. The inspection was financed here by a $250 appropriation by county commissioners.

Crawford county had the highest percentage of Foul Brood infestation of any county in the state, the report showed. In that county 40.2 per cent of the colonies are infected. In Ashland county the infestation is 20.8 per cent; Holmes county, 14.2 per cent; Huron, 1 per cent, and Morrow, 8.6 per cent.

Infestation throughout the state has been reduced to 4.6 per cent from 14.94 per cent in 1931, Reese said.

BEGIN PAYING OFF AMERICAN DAMAGE CLAIMS

Tokyo Indicates Dislike for Use of Trade Treaty as 'Club' to Mould Policies.

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO—Looking toward better relations with the United States, Japan is paying off numerous claims for damages to American property in China, authoritative sources disclosed today.

They said Foreign Minister Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura informed United States Ambassador Joseph C. Crew in a two-hour conference yesterday that Japan was prepared to settle such claims.

These sources declared, however, the Japanese disliked use of the U. S.-Japanese trade treaty as a "club" for influencing policies in China.

The treaty, denounced by the United States in July, is due to expire Jan. 26.

It was said Grew and Nomura temporarily shelved discussion of such problems as the open door in the Orient and the nine-power treaty, Japan being primarily interested in bridging the period immediately following the treaty's expiration.

For this reason, many long-standing American damage claims for bombings in China are being compensated. It was understood reliably the government soon would release a compilation of evidences of Japan's good intentions, enumerating the cases and amounts paid.

The same sources denied reports Nomura had told Grew a rapprochement was impossible under threats of economic pressure, or that Japan was displeased over the reported strengthening of the American Pacific Fleet.

The foreign minister merely stated, they said, that if America placed an embargo on exports to Japan, commodities must be sought elsewhere.

Observers said Japan at present was unable to go beyond specific incidents, as her future policies respecting all third powers in China must be conditioned by the sort and scope of government to be organized in China under Wang Ching-Wei.

FAIR ENOUGH!

'God-Stuff' Promoter Sets Writer 'Right' But He Still Can't See It

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Dr. Frank B. Robinson of Moscow, Idaho, has been in our midst briefly and has endeavored to set your correspondent right on some matters pertaining to the God business which is enjoying a boom at the present writing.

Dr. Robinson, who answers to the name of Doc, is the man who advertises that he was a box-car bum but talked with God and speedily acquired a magnificent home with a pipe organ, a Cadillac limousine for himself, other cars, diminuendo, for his wife and son, "a lot of life insurance" and a bank account sufficient to withstand the tap of a check in five figures.

He charges $20 per head for a correspondence course in his copyrighted religious philosophy, called psychiana, and sicks a collection agency on deadbeats, backsliders and flunks who try to gyp him of his payments. But he insists he does not desire to make money out of Psychiana. His attempt to set your correspondent right thus leaves your correspondent's confusion worse confounded, but perhaps you can figure it out.

The Doc expressed disbelief in several current competitors in the God business, particularly G. W. Ballard of Los Angeles known as The Great I Am. Mr. Ballard's widely scattered believers labor under an impression—which may be correct, for all your correspondent knows to the contrary—that he is the reincarnation of George Washington and that his wife is the reincarnation of Joan of Arc.

They also shun onions and garlic as being offensive to the ascended masters. The least implausible of all their tenets, some of which are rather trying, they abhor the color red for the evil vibrations which it projects into the world but nevertheless vow allegiance to the American flag and wear the same, red stripes and all, on their lapels.

Doc Robinson says he doesn't believe a word of Mr. Ballard's revelations, insisting they are against reason, and adds that, anyway, he can't make head nor tail of the I Am religion. He refers to various of these new philosophies and faiths, including his own, as "stuff." That is to say, he speaks of "My Stuff" and Ballard's "stuff;" and Father Divine's "stuff."

In speaking of his stuff, Doc. Robinson's tone is one of proprietary pride and jealousy, like that of a radio comic with a prosperous, surefire specialty who is wary of pirates and poachers. He says Ballard called on him when he, Ballard, "was just starting out." "I told him I didn't mind," the Doc says, "just so he doesn't infringe my copyright. I just warned him to keep off my stuff."

Nevertheless, the Doc insists that Ballard's stuff in parts is very similar to his stuff, even though he can't make head nor tail of Ballard's stuff. "I am not interested in saving souls," says he, that is orthodox. I want to raise the mental and spiritual sights of the people. And if I didn't copyright my stuff I would have every faker in the country using it. It would be poor business, in the first place, if I didn't copyright it, because I have got a religious philosophy that is a stem-winder.

There is no legal way to stop a faker. With a guy like that all you can do is just let them alone and they'll blow up."

Regarding the uncommercial spirit in which he proceeds to raise the mental and spiritual sights of his fellow men and the resort to force, as it were, to compel payment for his courses in this consoling and enriching philosophy, Doc Robinson was unable to turn the flank or penetrate the center of your correspondent's obtuseness.

Altruist though he claims to be, he nevertheless does not release his secret of happiness and material wealth freely to human kind, but restricts it to those who can undertake to pay $20. He frankly states in his advertising copy that he requires enough money above expenses "to grow." That is an exact way of putting it, and taken with the Doc's rather ostentatious description of his own wealthy condition, the mansion, the organ, the cars, bank roll and all, it leaves your correspondent as earnestly puzzled as before.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Charlie McCarthy, at work, is becoming an exclusive, retiring fellow. He has taken the veil.

The veil is of rubberized green silk. He wears it during those tiresome sessions under the lights when his far from wooden art is quiescent but his presence is required.

That fellow Bergen, now, has a stand-in. He can sit solemnly on the sidelines munching a sandwich and an apple and drinking a cup of hot brew for his lunch, but Charlie just has to give, and give, and give.

The cocky little dope never speaks to me, so I asked Bergen. "It's to protect his make-up," he began. "So many people handle him."

And then he spilled the rest of the story. "The amateur ventriloquists," he said. "The set is full of 'em. And then there are the ones who are always talking to Charlie, expecting an answer. I like to talk back, but I've got to save my throat. With the headpiece—see?—he doesn't invite conversation."

I think the latter is the real reason, and the make-up is an excuse. The people who talk to Charlie prefer funny answers. They say, in effect: "Be funny, Bergen. You're a comedian, ain't ya?" Maybe that's why comics generally look so glum.

Bergen is going to take a week off in January to visit Mexico City. With Charlie? "With-OUT!" said Bergen. "He's as sick of me as I am of him!"

But they're still good friends, of course?

Ran smack into an intellectual divertissement of the stars on the set of "Buck Benny Rides Again," where Buck—eye-killing in pink silk shirt, sky-blue jeans, green neckerchief, 10-gallon hat and cowboy boots—was doing a scene with Virginia Dale.

The game—played offstage, of course—runs like this:

Ellen Drew says "Me pants, animals apple. Guess who?"

Deep cogitation all around. The answer: "You jean(s), Zoo-core," which plain as anything means Eugene Zukor.

Harry Lee, Penny's stand-in, offers "Calm, Wednesday halfback" to be translated as Gale Sondergaard, see?).

Lee also perpetrates "Retainer retainer, gate speak" or "Fee-fee Door-say," which gives you an idea. Andy Devine breaks up the session with the strictly unethical "Blank shell, rough. Cover Up" for Dud-ley Digges. ("When you dig you cover up, don'tcha?" he alibied.)

You wanna play?

"Mae don't feel so good today," somebody said leaving the West set.

"Okay to go in, but don't talk to her," said somebody else. "Mae don't feel so good."

Now who am I to disturb a lady who don't feel so good? I watched her—the old familiar Mae with a bustle—taking over a rough frontier schoolroom in Schoolmarm Anne Nagel's absence.

On the blackboard were chalked these lines: "I am a good man. I am a good boy. I am a good girl." One guess, now—which line is Mae going to play with?

Donnellan Sets New Mark in Club Loop

Rolls Games of 227, 244 and 205 In Establishing New Record.

IT'S A REAL BATTLE to attempt to gain sole possession of first place in the Club Bowling league.

Six teams are deadlocked at the top of the heap today, with only four games separating them from last place.

While the clubs were fighting for the top rung, Bill Donnellan of the Liederkranz team took care of individual scoring honors.

Donnellan set a new season individual mark by busting the maples for a 676 total.

He put together games of 227, 244 and 205 in collecting his new record, and leading his team to three wins over the Kiwanis keglers. Selby and Henry Michaels came in for a portion of the honors in the Liederkranz scoring by smacking out a 635 and 612, respectively. Both bowlers had a high game of 232.

Jake Mayer of the Richman Clothes, paced his club to three wins over the Schoolmasters with a nifty 640 total, which included games of 206, 254 and 177. The defeat, however, still left the Schoolmasters sharing the lead with the J. A. C., Liederkranz, Richman Clothes, Commercial Managers and Optimist teams.

Opening with a 222, Art Hilborn rolled up a 630 total to lead the Optimists to three wins over the Page Dairy club.

In the other games Harry Frick blasted out a 611 total as the Commercial Managers took three games from the Junior Association of Commerce. Tracy and Avery won two games from the American Legion, and Lumbermens Insurance copped a pair of games from the Mansfield Savings Bank.

Aggies Top Grid Team

Unbeaten Texas Club Replaces Tennessee In National Poll.

NEW YORK—(AP)—You can take your pick among Texas A. and M., Tennessee and Southern California as the nation's best 1939 football team, but right now the experts are picking the Aggies.

They completed their regular campaign last week with their tenth straight victory, while their two leading rivals have to play a couple of dangerous rivals Saturday before they can breath easily, sit back and wait for Bowl bids.

Texas A. and M., rated first by 28 of the 87 voters, rolled 763 points of a possible 870. Tennessee, moved into second place with 19 first-place votes and 741 points, and the Trojans came in third with 18 firsts and 709 points.

The remarkably-close call Southern California had against Washington last Saturday, winning 9-7 in the last two minutes of play, apparently influenced the experts considerably. A week ago, after their triumph over Notre Dame, the Trojans shared the lead with the Aggies. Tennessee was fourth last week, but bounced back again after its decisive victory over Kentucky.

Southern California's rival in the season's windup this weekend is U. C. L. A. and the rankings reflect the general forecast for the game—U. S. C. overcoming stubborn opposition to win. Tennessee faces Auburn, a possible upsetter, with its backfield stars, George (Bad News Cafego and Johnny Butler, injured.

Indians Sell Jimmy Webb

Boston Red Sox Seeking Pytlak or Hemsley.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Officials of the Cleveland Indians, sticking to their new defensive policy on player trades, were still sitting in the corner as the winter baseball meeting warmed up today

Manager Oscar Vitt, however, received some offers

Manager Connie Mack of the Athletics was reported as ready to trade Outfielder Wally Moses for Second Baseman Sammy Hale. Vitt, who wants Outfielder Bob Johnson instead, refused and Mack said he would not trade Johnson "even for Bob Feller."

The White Sox were rumored as having offered Outfielder Gerry Walker for Catcher Frankie Pytlak, but Vitt said the proposal was Walker for Jeff Heath

"Of course we wouldn't listen to that," the Indian pilot said "Walker is all right, I guess, but in spite of his bad season Heath is still one of the greatest natural hitters that ever came into this game."

The Boston Red Sox, interested in Pytlak and Rollie Hemsley, put up Pitchers Jim Bagby, jr., and Eldon Auker as bait, but the Indians said they weren't interested.

The Cleveland management gave Shortstop Lou Boudreau another vote of confidence as it sold Jimmy Webb, the Tribe's 1939 short fielder, to St. Paul of the American Association. Webb was sent to Buffalo when Boudreau was called up last August.

* * *

Cleveland officials have indicated if they make any deals they will be for a pitcher or a right-handed hitting outfielder.

Facts and Fancies From Major-Minor Baseball Meet

By FRITZ HOWELL

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Facts and fancies from the major-minor baseball meeting:

Mike Kelley, owner of the Minneapolis Millers of the American association, who observed his 64th birthday anniversary, Saturday, is the new police chief of Daytona Beach, Fla.

Mayor Ernest Padgett of the Florida city made a special trip to Cincinnati to present the veteran "Mike" with a gold badge emblematic of his new office—which he'll hold while his Millers train in Daytona Beach next spring.

Minneapolis, St. Paul, Toledo and Atlanta are in the thick of the fight for the 1940 minor league convention—and right now it looks as if Georgia might hold the lucky number. The boys will decide Wednesday night on the site for the next year.

Hank Gowdy, Cincinnati coach, and the first baseball player to enlist in the army back in World war days, will address a church group in Springfield, O., Wednesday night.

Hank, asked what he would speak on, gave one of his longest replies as he said:

"Baseball!"

George Trautman, prexy of the American association, was re-elected to a two-year term as the "AA" league representative on the minor league executive committee. The red-head has been serving as chairman of the minor circuit body, and is expected to retain that post.

"Pie" Traynor, although he's out as the Pittsburgh skipper, is singing praises of Johnny Gee, the six-foot nine-inch hurler with the Pirates. "He can strike out any string of right-handers in the game," Pie said, "and his only trouble is that his change of pace is too perfect. That left-hander really has the stuff, and you'll hear plenty from him in a year or two."

Rumors are flying around that Harold Anderson, former Columbus, O., outfielder, who managed the Asheville club in the Piedmont loop last season, would sign over as skipper at New Orleans in 1940, and that Zack Taylor, the San Antonio, Tex., pilot, would be at the helm of Toledo's American association entry. Burt Shotton will be back at Columbus.

Red Lucas, the old Cincinnati Red hurler, who had a pretty fair record with the Chattanooga's Southern association pennant winner last season, is looking around for a job. He's a free agent—and a pinch hitter that almost any club could use, even if he wasn't needed out there on the hill.

The American association and International league named a joint committee to decide what sort of playoff the league should hold after 1940. Next season the Shaughnessy plan will be in effect in each loop, and the little world series will go on as usual, the International having changed its closing date from Sept. 8 to Sept. 15 to coincide with the association slate,. The joint committee is composed of Leo T. Miller of Indianapolis, Waldo Shank of Toledo, Lou McKenna of St. Paul, Leo Bondi of Jersey City, Hector Racine of Montreal, and Ben Reisman of Buffalo.

Selected on All Star Team

JOHN PFAHLER

CAPT. MIKE HORVATH

TWO MANSFIELD high football players received an unexpected Christmas present today.

They are Capt. Mike Horvath and John Pfahler and the two youths are going to bask in Florida sunshine over the holidays.

On Christmas day these two lads will be among a group of selected Ohio high school gridders who will play in the third annual Kumquat Bowl football contest at St. Petersburg, Fla. It marks the first time any Mansfield high gridder has been selected on the team.

Horvath and Pfahler received invitations today to accompany the Columbus Citizen All-Stars to Florida to tackle the St. Petersburg and Pinellas county high school all stars in the bowl tussle.

The two youngsters who were regulars on Coach Paul Snyder's Tyger eleven this fall, will leave Mansfield Dec. 18 and return on Dec. 28—a 10-day vacation.

They will practice with the All-Stars at Ohio State stadium on the 18th and leave for Florida the next day. According to plans the All-Stars are scheduled to arrive in St. Petersburg on Thursday and will work out there until game time Christmas day.

Faces Princess

MISS GILLEM

PRINCESS Rose White Cloud, the Indian lass from Kansas who is taking midwestern mat circles by storm, may be well on her way to a shot at champion Mildred Burke if she manages to hurdle her opponent in the Armory here Thursday night. Princess Rose will meet Gladys Gillem of Birmingham, Ala., in a two-fall, 45-minute time limit bout.

Better known to American followers of the feminine mat sport as "the blond tigress of the south," Miss Gillem is unquestionably the roughest little vixen now campaigning in the ranks of the so-called weaker sex. Like some of the more noted male "villains" of the padded ring, she stops at nothing to gain victory.

Gladys Gillem's style is a combination of fists, elbows, biting and gouging, not to forget a little old-fashioned hair-pulling. The rougher the going, the better she likes it and it is no idle boast when she says she can whip three-fourths of the men at her weight.

The match between Princess Rose and Miss Gillem will occupy the semi-final spot on Thursday's card, the feature of which sends personable Gil Knutsen of Toronto, Canada, against Indian Ike Cazzell of Laredo, Texas. Knutsen and Cazzell are slated for two falls, with 90-minute time limit, under rules of the Midwest wrestling association.

Tickets for the program will be on sale tomorrow at Hunt's News Depot, City News and the Ringside Cafe. One more contest will be added to the card.

MART DISPLAYS MILD RALLY IN QUIET SESSION

Aircraft Issues Among Leaders as Numerous Stocks Remain in Minus Column.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Mild rallying tendencies were displayed by selected stocks in today's market, although numerous issues remained in the minus column.

Dealings picked up a trifle in the first hour but quited near the second period.

Douglas Aircraft got up more than a point and lesser gains were posted for U. S. Steel, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, American Smelting, American Telephone, Du Pont, and United Airlines.

Lacking rising animation were General Motors, Chrysler, Bethlehem, Western Union, North American and Eastman Kodak.

Helping dim the speculative picture somewhat, brokers suggested, were signs business and industry were beginning to taper off. First concrete evidence of the slackening was seen in a dip in this week's steel mill operations. At the same time, most looked for no drastic let-down in the economic curve. Foreign offerings persisted as a market restraint and it was believed tax selling would be a factor from now until the end of the month.

Bonds were uneven and commodities steady. European markets were again without pronounced trends.

THREE HURT IN GAS EXPLOSION

Other Cleveland Workmen Escape Injury at New Asphalt Plant.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Three men were burned and a half dozen others escaped injury today in an explosion of gases generated by a liquifying machine at the city's new asphalt plant.

Those hurt were Sheldon Bowers, 56, plant superintendent; Leroy Byrd, 38, and Louis Mervar, 60. Each was burned on the face and hands.

Police reported the explosion occurred as heated oil was being run into a vat of pitch to thin the mixture. All three of the injured were enveloped in flames.

ASK STATE FOR 'SQUARE DEAL'

Mansfield Friends of Jenkins Start Petitions Opposing His Removal.

He said removal charges would be filed if Jenkins did not resign before the 30 days were ended.

The welfare director charged there had been "graft, loot, mismanagement and dealing in dope and whisky" at the prison farm, asserting "Jenkins admittedly was unable to cope with the situation when he asked for a three months' leave of absence in September."

Jenkins had been at the reformatory 31 years prior to his assignment to the London Prison farm March 1, 1935. He took over the position of William F. Amrine, who had been superintendent and who resigned. Amrine is now acting superintendent of the prison farm and it is expected he will get his old position back if Jenkins leaves.

Jenkins was in conference with Sherwood yesterday but at the conclusion refused to comment. Sherwood said "under no circumstances" would Jenkins be permitted to return to the London farm.

SEEK TO EASE RELIEF CRISIS

Cleveland, Toledo Officials Fear 'Disaster'; Renew Demand on Bricker.

weeks by officials of other hard-pressed cities, has brought from Bricker the response:

"We must pare down large-scale relief until we can be sure that only those who are actually in need are on the relief rolls. x x x the state has done all in its power.

"If the state can cut costs, so can the cities."

Cleveland faced a relief deficit of $1,200,000 Dec. 31; Mayor Burton said; Toledo had a deficit of $900,000; Dayton expected to be in the red $43,000.

Cleveland hoped to reduce its deficit by issuing $1,115,000 in bonds pledged against taxes now delinquent; Toledo was trying in court to obtain money from anticipated collections of auto license and gasoline tax funds.

The council in Cleveland resolved to restore relief to its "original basis," providing food for 18,000 persons recently cut off rolls, but Mayor Burton characterized the resolution as merely as "expression of opinion."

Gov. Bricker, basing his refusal to call the legislature on his contention cities have failed to do all in their power, observed:

"It would be hard to convince legislators from all over Ohio that they should vote a new tax burden on their constituents to help a city whose people refused to shoulder their own burden."

This reference was to Toledo, which last September voted down a special relief levy. The city thereupon discontinued relief orders to 8,562 cases, representing more than 16,000 individuals; only 1,778 cases were on the rolls there Nov. 15, and Clarence A. Benedict, Toledo relief director, estimated yesterday more than 2,000 families were limited to food given them by relatives and neighbors.

SEEK FUNDS

Volunteers to Place Chimneys on Streets This Week.

The Volunteers of America will launch a drive for contributions this week for their annual Christmas dinner for the "forgotten men" of the city.

A Christmas dinner will be served to men, women and children of the city who have no other means of enjoying a holiday dinner, according to Rev. R. T. White, head of the organization.

The familiar chimneys will be placed on the downtown streets within a few days and solicitors will make house-to-house calls for funds.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

U. S. Set to Join Latin Americas in Condeming Reds

READY TO OK DECLARATION IF ALL AGREE

Washington Lets It Be Known That Nation Willing If Others Endorse Move.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The United States is willing, to join with the 20 other western hemisphere republics in denouncing Russia's invasion of Finland, Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles announced today.

The United States, Welles said, had been approached by several Latin-American governments with a request for participation in a Pan-American declaration condemning the Soviet action.

Welles revealed that the state department had informed these governments that the United States will be glad to take part in the move if all the other Pan-American union member nations sign such a declaration.

So far, four South American republics—Argentina, Uruguay, Bolivia and Ecuador — have taken the initiative in working for the proposed declaration.

Bolivian and Ecuadorian diplomatic representatives called at the state department yesterday at which time the proposal was reported to have been discussed.

Those backing the projected western hemisphere denunciation of Russia asserted that Article 9 of the recent neutrality declaration evolved at Panama City, imposes a moral obligation on the American republics to castigate the Soviet.

Section 4 and 5 of this article state that the western hemisphere republics "consider the violation of the neutrality or the invasion of weaker nations as an unjustifiable measure in the conduct and success of war and that they undertake to protest against any warlike act which does not conform to international law and the dictates of justice."

Declines Comment.

Secretary of State Hull yesterday declined to discuss the proposal but indicated he might have something to say later.

It was felt in official quarters that a joint condemnation of Russia by 21 nations would be a considerably more forceful diplomatic rebuke than scattered criticism expressed by individual government leaders. One of the principal reasons why the proposal meets with favor among United States officials is that it would ease the strong pressure for severance of diplomatic relations between this country and the Soviet.

URGES COUNCIL

Columbus Man Points to Value of United Social Agencies.

John Hall, assistant director of the Council of Social Agencies at Columbus, pointed to the value of correlating welfare work in a city in an address to the Social Workers' club at First Methodist church last evening.

About 90 persons attended the meeting, one of the largest in several years, E. W. Kissell, president, said.

Hall explained how a council of social agencies is formed and how it functions. He said that under a council plan, welfare work is dovetailed, but does not overlap, and makes for greater efficiency and better results.

After the dinner musical entertainment was provided by a group from Senior High school and Major David Brown of the Salvation army and Miss Violet Richardson of the Y. W. C. A. had charge of the community singing.

Morris was arrested by Capt. Jesse Schwab and Lieut. Carl Kalstein after crashing into a car operated by Wilbur Forsham, 193 East Third street.

Acting Judge Herbert H. Schettler deferred sentence until 9 a. m. Wednesday in order to give Forsham an opportunity to get an estimate on the damage to his car.

COUNCIL EXPECTED TO MAKE SHORT WORK OF FINAL SESSION

City council meeting in its last regular session of the year tonight is expected to wind up its business in jig-time.

Although most of the bills to be considered call for transfer of funds and supplemental appropriations to cover departmental expenditures for the balance of the year, council is expected to spend little time in discussing them.

Among the bills will be a $7,000 appropriation to cover the estimated cost of indigent patients at the General hospital during December. Another measure, calling for the construction of a concrete roadway to the garbage disposal plant hinges on council's approval of the designation of a strip of land from Park avenue east to the plant as a city street.

Although the present council ends its regime this month, there will be only two new faces when the new council take up its duties next year. Two members retire this year.

The new member will be Jacob Kutchall, fourth ward councilman-elect and Howard G. Miller council president. Those who give up their council seats are James E. Crum, council-at-large, who did not run for re-election, and Lester D. Hunter, fourth ward councilman, beaten in the primaries by Kutchall.

Re-elected were Russell D. Porch, first ward; C. N. Shultz, second ward incumbent; George C. Kyle, third ward; Fred Miller, fifth ward and Arthur L. Croak, sixth ward. So were Harry Emmons and George Berg, councilmen-at-large, as was Phil Smith, who "filled in" the past two months. He replaced Berg who was elevated to the council presidency temporarily after the death of Karl P. Troll.

PROJECT OK'D

$19,700 WPA Road Job Approved; Bridge Work Sought.

Richland county today received federal approval for a $19,700 WPA road project and prepared to file an application for an $18,000 bridge project on North Main street, County Engineer Howard C. Sword said.

The road job calls for widening and resurfacing of a half mile of the South Diamond street road at the city limits and will provide work for 50 men for an estimated three months. Work on the project is expected to start in three weeks.

Plans for the bridge project provide for construction on a 40-foot cement span between the Erie and Pennsylvania tracks on Main street to replace a structure that collapsed last spring.

The county has sought state help in building the bridge, but due to the controversy over the proposed grade elimination project on route 30-N has received little encouragement, the county engineer said.

HEARING HELD AT ASHLAND IN GREENLUN PLEA

Civil Service Commission Members Hear Testimony on Highway Ouster.

ASHLAND — Members of the State Civil Service commission were in Ashland today, hearing the appeal of Robert M. Greenlun, recently ousted from the state highway department by orders of State Highway Director Robert S. Beightler.

The commission was reported to be ready to hear 52 witnesses who had been subpoened to testify into the appeal of Greenlun as to why he was ousted from his job as route marking superintendent after he had been restored to that job by Franklin county common pleas court.

Greenlun was ousted shortly before the Bricker administration came into power, by Ivan R. Ault, after he testified at Mt. Vernon as to Ault's alleged political activities.

Greenlun filed suit in the Franklin county common pleas court, but after having been restored to his job, was ousted again, this time by Col. Beightler.

Greenlun at this time is also the center of attraction in the two indictments against two Brunswick officials, Mark M. Lutz, justice of the peace, and Walter R. Petchler, constable, for allegedly signing false affidavits, and which are said to have resulted in a 30-day suspension of the highway employe.

After the indictments had gone into effect, Beightler came out with the announcement that he was ousting Greenlun permanently, not for what the affidavits charged, but for other alleged violations and charges.

LOUISIANA GETS NEW OIL BOOM

Black Gold From Muddy Soil Puts Many More Workers Back in Employment.

(By United Press)

NEW ORLEANS — Oil—black gold from the muddy soil of Louisiana's salt marsh country—is transforming once idle refineries into scenes of activity and putting many idle men back to work.

Along the lower west bank of the Mississippi river, four oil loading terminals have been repaired and placed in service and two others soon will be completed In addition, several of the tank farms that line the west bank are undergoing extensive repairs

Several factors are responsible for the activity, chief of which is the repeal of the neutrality embargo. Local consumption comes in for a share of the credit, and the transition of ships from coal to fuel oil.

Oil companies have hired expert gaugers, pipeline workers, inspectors, pumpers, machinists and office workers, and the docks have taken on more men to handle the increased loading.

Oil tanks are being scraped and painted inside, and millions of barrels of oil are being bought throughout this section of the country. Storage capacity in the tank farm has been increased and half a million barrels of storage space is either under construction or in blueprint stages.

Refiners have had to meet another problem A majority of the contracts handled through the New Orleans terminals call for 41 per cent gravity oil Practically all South Louisiana oils are low gravity 38 or lower, or high test distillate.

Some cracking or skimming is needed to bring the low test oils to the specified gravity One oil company, faced with the problem, bought the old Chalmette refinery, idle for years

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1939.

Somehow there seems to be something missing from a letter if there's no Christmas Seal on the envelope.

This is the time of year when college football players have trouble resuming their scholastic schedule where they left off.

Complaint is made that rules of "civilized" warfare are being violated—but all warfare violates that older injunction, "Thou shalt not kill."

Tax on Bread Proposed

UNLESS an expression of widespread public opinion prevents such action there is strong likelihood that congress, at its next session, will enact a revival of food processing taxes which will put a tax on BREAD.

This plan, as contained in a bill introduced by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Montana Democrat, would institute a wheat-certificate allotment system that would, in effect, put a tax of from $1 to $2 a barrel on flour, the money collected being used to pay government subsidies to farmers who raise wheat.

This is along the same line as the processing tax, which was a feature of the original Agricultural Adjustment Act that was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

While touted as a "soak the rich" tax against milling industries, it is not difficult to see that the real payers of this tax would be all those millions of Americans who buy bread, and that millers, bakers and retailers would merely be collectors of the tax, which, it is estimated, would add $200,000,000 a year to the cost of foods made from flour.

And it would be on the poor, and those in ordinary circumstances, that the burden would fall heaviest—the very ones who were in mind when Ohio's retail sales tax was removed from foods.

Before any such action is taken by congress it should at least be fully understood by the millions who would be affected thereby.

Early Mailing Advisable

SUGGESTIONS offered and information given in yesterday's News-Journal by Mansfield postoffice employes are interesting and timely.

The holiday season is a busy period for postal workers and in the final rush just before Christmas it is physically impossible to handle the deluge of parcels, letters and greeting cards that are poured into the postoffice, sub-stations and street mail boxes.

Gifts bearing a label "Not to be opened until Christmas" can be mailed well in advance of the holiday, and greeting cards can also be placed in the mail some days in advance, so as to avoid the last-minute congestion and possibility of delayed delivery.

Thoughtfulness for postoffice employes and store clerks is a fine exemplification of the true holiday spirit.

Salvation Army's Indebtedness

STARTING of a campaign to raise $15,000 to clear the Salvation Army of indebtedness on its South Main street building may bring to some Mansfielders their first knowledge that a debt has been hanging over this welfare organization for the past seventeen years.

It was about twenty years ago—just after the Salvation Army had performed valuable service in the World war—that a campaign was conducted in Mansfield to secure funds with which to purchase a site and erect a suitable building as headquarters for the organization.

While contributions at that time were sufficient to provide the location at the corner of South Main and East Second streets and make part payment on the building, it was found necessary to incur indebtedness which there has not since been sufficient contributions to pay off and the interest on this debt has continued as an annual obligation, which, in seventeen years, has totaled approximately the amount borrowed.

It is now the thought of the organization's advisory committee that a sufficient number of Mansfield people are interested in the Salvation Army and its work to voluntarily subscribe enough to pay off this indebtedness and provide a surplus to be used for needed repairs.

Mansfield's Community Players

DEVELOPMENT of Mansfield appreciation has seldom appeared to better advantage than in the steadily increasing patronage and support that has been accorded the Community Players in recent years.

Having its origin thirteen years ago in a small group interested in "home talent" theatricals, Mansfield's "Little Theater movement" successfully combatted early obstacles and eventually advanced to widespread acceptance as a community institution which meets an entertainment need of this city and also provides opportunity for developing talent that might otherwise remain undiscovered.

Opening their new season tonight with the first of three offerings, Mansfield Community Players merit commendation for their past accomplishments and justify confidence in the excellence of their future productions.

Let Congress Fix the Date

NOW that it has been demonstrated that all of the states will not fall in with a presidential caprice in shifting Thanksgiving from its traditional date, might it not be appropriate for congress to fix a definite date for this holiday?

As it turned out this year, the Thanksgiving holiday, which is assumed to have a somewhat serious significance, was made more or less of a joke by about half the states observing one date and half the other—while several thought it a good idea to have two Thanksgivings a week apart.

Next year's Thanksgiving will be on November 28th—unless President Roosevelt decides to play around with it again.

Get Your Sales Tax Stamps

MUCH of the retail buying done this month will be subject to the 3 per cent Ohio sales tax—and on some items purchased this sales tax will be a considerable amount.

These sales tax stamps are redeemable at 3 per cent of their face value and a number of benevolent organizations collect the stamps and use the money to excellent advantage.

The purpose of this stamp redemption is to encourage buyers to insist on being given their sales tax stamps with each purchase. Be sure to get your sales tax stamps with every taxable purchase.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—The State department is keeping a weather eye out on Europe but the real trouble spot for this country just now is Japan. It will be the headline-maker around the first of the year.

It would be hard to find two nations so actively engaged in ruffling each other's feelings while at peace as the United States and Japan.

Naturally, both sides claim to be right. Each claims the other is pursuing a course which fails to take into consideration the realities of the situation.

Pro and Con.

JAPAN insists that the United States, along with all other non-Oriental nations, fails to "understand" that there is a "new order" in the Orient. The assertion that others do not "understand" the peculiar problems of the Orient is a favorite one of the Japanese.

On the contrary, the United States declares it very well understands the situation. Japan, says the United States, deliberately set out to make over China in its own image, all in violation of international law and in violation of treaties Japan had signed with other countries.

Debate Goes On.

THE Japanese always insist that the United States is being used by the British as a catspaw to protect British interests in the Orient.

The United States says its interest is governed by a large concept — equality of opportunity once agreed to by a group of nations cannot be changed simply by one nation.

"Failure to observe that principle," said Ambassador Grew in a comprehensive statement to the Japanese of the U. S. position, "breeds international friction and ill-will, with consequences injurious to all countries, including in particular those countries which fail to observe it."

Japan apparently forgot to read closely enough the part of that sentence after the last comma. Also it evidently forgot to read the next part of the same paragraph, in which Grew said:

"Observance of that principle (of equal opportunity) promotes the opening of trade channels thereby making available the markets, the raw materials and the manufactured products of the community of nations on a mutually and reciprocally beneficial basis."

Reprisals Grow.

THAT should have told Japan that such things as embargoes of raw materials were being discussed in the United States. But Japan didn't take the hint. The annoying blockade of the British area in Tientsin — including the public strippings and searching—was extended in part to Americans.

Reprisal came fairly fast. Senator Pittman, chairman of the foreign relations committee, who frequently acts under state department guidance, introduced a resolution calling for an embargo against Japan. Hot on its heels came the U. S. denunciation of the 28-year-old trade treaty with Japan.

If the United States had wanted simply to exert pressure on Japan, it could have done so forcefully and effectively while negotiating a new treaty. But just now it is popular to lash the Japanese, so they got it in the teeth.

The Japanese have replied in kind. Within the past few days a detailed report was filed with the state department of the increasing restrictions imposed by Japanese on Yankee operations in China.

Health And Diet

Needless Surgery Greatest Problem.

—By DR. CLENDENING

IN A HOSPITAL the other day I saw a woman who represented what I think is the greatest problem of medical practice today.

She was 50 years old. She was plump and apparently cheerful and intelligent. Her skin was in a pink glow of health. Her heart was sound and steady. Her eyes were bright. Her hearing was good. Her limbs were strong. She moved rapidly, gracefully, without pain or evidence of arthritis. Yet, here was her record:

In the last 30 years she had undergone four operations—three totally unnecessary and one to repair an accident of one of the operations.

One of the operations was down on the record for "appendicitis." She was asked if she were very sick when she had this, and she said she certainly was. She said she was sick for four years with it and had pain in the appendix all the time. Was the appendix very red when it was taken out? No, she said, the doctor said it was white as chalk and the longest on record — eight inches long.

Regards It as Myth.

In other words, she was operated on for chronic appendicitis, which is a myth, according to Dr. A. E. Hertzler, one of the greatest American surgeons. Only drug store or bucket shop surgeons operate for "chronic appendicitis." The reason we think chronic appendicitis is a myth is that too many patients appear with the pain of chronic appendicitis after the appendix has been removed.

Besides her surgical experiences, this woman had been to sanitaria five times for "nervous breakdown." She had two children, which proves she had some health. She had all her teeth removed. She had been to two gastro-enterologists, and had been treated for allergy, avitaminosis, and had been shot full of more hormones than the British navy has torpedoes.

She took a cathartic every night or morning of her life, and had bouts with bicarbonate or a tonic monthly or weekly.

But so far as anybody in the hospital could make out, she was, save for the scars of her surgical campaigns, perfectly normal and healthy.

Made Life Miserable.

She had made a potentially comfortable and happy life perfectly miserable, and heaven knows how wretched she had made her husband and children—simply from a false idea that she was in delicate health.

Gifted amateurs, who have never practiced medicine a day in their lives, write glibly in the magazines about this or that being "the great medical problem." It is cancer usually, or, perhaps, infantile paralysis. But they are not real problems. There is something to do for cancer, and even if we fail, death is seldom a problem and even less often a tragedy. As Hamlet said, with his customary verbosity, it is "common." It is a tragedy we all prepare for. And real handicaps are often advantages in disguise.

No, it is these self-made invalids who are the great medical problem. What was the tremendous line of Wordsworth's? It was in the "Prelude," I think: "Imperfectly traveling toward the grave."

Listen, World!

Pity Is Bad Medicine

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

"WHY," says she, "don't you give more pity to people in trouble, instead of harshly telling them to 'snap out of it?' You can't have known any hard times yourself or you would have more heart."

You're wrong, my friend. It's just because I have known hard times myself, and suffered from the vicious effects of pity, that I refuse to pass it on to other unfortunates. Sympathy—yes. Understanding—to the limit. But no pity. For if there's anything that will trap a man more deeply in the mire of despair, it's that demoralizing drug.

What's the first thing, the main thing, to do with misfortune? The answer's unanimous—GET OVER IT. Ask any human who has had a bad jolt, or has gotten himself in a tight corner, what he most desires, and he'll loudly protest that he wants OUT. Moreover, he believes that he is telling the truth. He is honestly convinced that he wants to put his misery behind him. Yet, nine times out of ten, he DOESN'T.

He would like, of course, to be rid of the more pressing anguish or embarrassing complications. Yet, even at the same time, he rather relishes his rile of Helpless Victim.

For misery is often a great convenience. It provides an escape for our cowardice, an excuse for our laziness, an alibi for cussedness and a spotlight for our conceit.

"What a mean thing to say about people in trouble!" every sentimentalist will cry. No, stranger — just a TRUE thing.

We're like that, we humans. You've seen it proved scores of times in your friends and acquaintances. Naturally, you're less ready to admit it in yourself —yet it's true.

THE HARDEST PART ABOUT UNHAPPINESS ISN'T GETTING INTO IT . . . OR EVEN ENDURING IT . . . BUT BEING WILLING TO GET OVER IT.

We cling to our blues!

And that's where and why pity becomes pure poison.

Pity doesn't take a man away from his trouble—but drives him deeper into it. Pity doesn't brace and challenge a sufferer—but provides a perfect stimulus for suffering more and more and more. Pity doesn't make a man forget his grief—but encourages him to turn that grief into a racket.

Moreover, pity, like any other dangerous drug, beclouds the real issue—namely, the fact that we ourselves are always responsible for at least part of our own misery. Often for all of it. Which, of course, none of us wants to admit. And pity protects us from such humiliating admission. Pity makes us seem martyrs instead of the measley mutts which we all too frequently are.

Yes, pity is popular. And unless you dispense it, you AREN'T. Which is why we both give and get gobs of it. But no honest person, no truly friendly person, will dispense pity. And no proud, self-respecting person will receive it. He'll give, and he'll ask—FAITH, instead. The FAITH that believes he's strong enough, brave enough to lift himself out of the mire. Not the pity that drives him in deeper.

And if you're wanting to make a test of any human, particularly yourself, there's one test that will prove, without fail, whether you're the real goods or a phoney. Which do YOU desire from your friends when you're in a jam—PITY, OR FAITH?

Timely Editorial

Let Them Spew.

Even beneath the contempt we feel for Stalin are his jackals in America, who slavishly follow the party line that runs from Moscow and attempt to justify such outrages as the rape of Finland.

For instance, the Daily Worker, Communist party newspaper in New York, comes out with two columns of dreadful drivel, asserting that "the Roosevelt Administration shares the joint responsibility with Prime Minister Chamberlain and the French Premier Daladier for inciting the Finnish Bourgeoisie-Landlord cliques to hostile actions against the Soviet Union."

The Daily Worker is the same paper which almost daily howls that Communists are being denied free speech and free press. Yet no one interferes with the right of the Daily Worker to print the most outrageous lies and calumnies. And we hope no one will interfere.

We hope that because we believe in freedom, even for opinion we despise. And because we know that the Communists will destroy any influence they may still have in this country if they are permitted to continue their impudent insults to American intelligence.—Cleveland Press.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Probably no single phase of the Roosevelt administration has been under more fire than the Brain Trust, but it now develops that the Republicans also are having Brain Trust problems. For as the Republican executive committee converged on Washington this week, it was the program committee, frequently called the GOP Brain Trust, which caused the Grand Old Party all sorts of secret headaches.

In fact, the program committee, plus the question of holding the national convention before or after the Democratic convention, were the two chief problems on the confidential Republican agenda.

The dilemma over the national convention date has been given more publicity than was welcome, by a well-known spokesman at Warm Springs. But the storm over the program committee so far has been kept under cover. Yet the problem goes to the roots of the Republican party and involves the vital issue of conservatism and progressivism, plus practical old-fashioned politics.

On the conservative side are the Hoover forces plus John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee. On the progressive side are Alf Landon, Colonel Frank Knox, and veteran Republican leaders in congress. Their enmity parallels that between the Garner and Roosevelt wings of the Democratic party.

Birth of a Committee.

ACTUALLY the program committee is the brain-child of Herbert Hoover, though probably he never dreamed his child would grow the way it did. It was he who first proposed that the Republicans hold a mid-term convention to formulate a 1938 Republican platform.

This was prior to the mid-term congressional elections of 1938, and the proposal brought immediate protests from the Landon group, which pointed to the fallacy of erecting a target for the Democrats to shoot at. What the Republicans should do, they said, was to concentrate on bombarding Democratic targets, and keep under cover themselves.

After a hot debate the logic of the Landon group prevailed, and as a compromise, the program committee was evolved. At its helm was placed Glenn Frank, recently resigned president of the University of Wisconsin, and as its members were selected some of the brightest young men in the party.

They went to work in dead earnest, and at a secret meeting, March 1, 1938, Glenn Frank set August as the date for completing the committee's "Program."

Round One.

HOWEVER, two things happened. One was that the majority of the committee—and it totaled 250 members—turned out to be much more progressive than Mr. Hoover and those who were paying the expenses. And the program which they proposed included social security, public health and various New Deal measures.

In fact, quite a few members wanted to draw up a platform censoring Roosevelt for not going far enough. All this was a source of keen disappointment to their sponsors, if not of irritation and disgust.

This came to a head at the meeting held in Chicago in August, 1938, when the young progressives proposed their very liberal quasi-New Deal platform. Herbert Hoover's representatives, in turn, proposed a "declaration of principle" reaffirming Republican support of the Constitution of the United States and the Supreme Court.

Alexander Smith of New Jersey, who was spokesman for Hoover, urged such a declaration of principle, and hinted that it would re-establish confidence among Republican leaders who were contributing to the support of the committee, and convince them that the committee was not "communistic."

With the program committee deadlocked between the young progressives and the conservatives of its executive committee, the powerful Landon forces also came into play.

The Landonites argued that any program, whether liberal or conservative, would be disastrous just before the 1938 elections. Almost every Republican running for congress bombarded headquarters with telegrams demanding that the program committee do nothing. So, except for an innocuous report spanking the Democrats, it followed this advice.

Round Two.

ROUND TWO in the inner Republican struggle came just a year later (July, 1939), when John Hamilton suddenly summoned Glenn Frank to Washington and told him to be ready to submit his platform report to the executive committee at its meeting in Washington on Dec. 7.

Dr. Frank was skeptical. He had his fingers burnt once. So he decided to interview some of the "old hands" around the Capitol before he roused his committee to action again. The reaction he got was unanimous.

"You tell Hamilton," Capitol leaders advised Frank, "that you'll make your report to the national convention. That's where it belongs. We don't want any platform recommendations floating around for six or eight months for the Democrats to shoot at. You go home and forget it."

So before leaving Washington, Dr. Frank informed Hamilton what he had been told, and the chairman agreed that perhaps this was good advice.

Third Round.

THE much kicked-about program committee subsided into regional activity and relative obscurity, until a few weeks ago. Then, suddenly, the chairmen of its 35 sub-committees received word from Glenn Frank to hurry their reports, since he had been asked to submit them to the executive committee in Washington this week.

So for a third time, the fat is in the fire.

Once again the Landon group suspects that Hoover is behind this move, aiming to get the GOP executive committee this week to adopt a conservative program upholding the principles of his administration.

This suspicion is induced because many leaders of the liberal faction have not been consulted, and because Hoover conservatives have now virtually wrested control from the discouraged liberals.

Also the Landonites are still convinced that it is poor strategy to put the party on record at this time regarding such dynamite-loaded issues as relief, agriculture, unemployment and international affairs. The farm plank is especially difficult, and last week caused Dr. Frank to send a frantic SOS to GOP congressional farm leaders asking for advice.

But they turned him down. On the eve of a congressional session in which farm legislation will be a major issue, they wanted to have absolutely nothing to do with it. In fact, they want to have absolutely nothing to do with any program or Brain Trust ideas at this time.

Modern Cider Press

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

SEVERAL years ago four brothers who are orchardists bought fruiting acres near a country village and began to prune and spray and plant new varieties. They top-worked many of the larger trees, and grafted them to more desirable strains. They plowed the land, fertilized the trees, cleaned up and burned the diseased wood.

The second year they raised a mammoth crop and marketed the fruit from a cold storage house in town. Now they have built a mammoth storage building upon an orchard slope. Today I drove there to borrow bushel baskets. Since my two oldest children were along, I stopped to let them see the working of the hydraulic cider press.

We parked our car on a little rise and walked across a draw to a low building where we heard machinery running. Outside, a man was emptying bushel baskets of red and yellow apples into a hopper. A stack of several hundred bushels stood near by.

We entered by a door at the corner. Four men were working. One attended to the machinery, one emptied the pomace, two more were shaping newly ground apples that came down a broad cloth chute into canvas mold supported by a wooden border four inches high. Layer after layer was built upon this little frame, with wheels beneath it, until it looked like a gigantic many-layered cake. Then the entire load was pushed into the vise-like press.

The machinist changed a belt and started the pumps that moved the plunger upward. Soon cider spurted from the brown cloth molds in many places and formed a tempting rivulet that flowed beneath. We all drank of the fresh, cool, tempting juice, exclaimed at the delicious taste and odor, turned to go.

"Before you leave," one brother said, "go down by the storage-house and take a look." We did as he directed.

On one side were stored 35,000 bushels of winter apples. On the other were rows and rows of barrels. A man, wearing a heavy overcoat was filling barrels with cider pumped from the press.

"How many barrels have you in here?" I asked.

"Two thousand, and they'll all be filled," he said. "They sell their apples and cider right here on the place. On Sundays the long string of cars moving up and down this road looks like a never-ending funeral procession. They sell vinegar, apple jack and sweet cider, the year around, and have a thriving business out here in the country."

TELL BILL GOODBYE + + + + + +

By MARIE BLIZARD

(Copyright, 1939.)

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

How long had he been standing there quietly? How much had Bill Mallory seen of that little play of welcome.

She said, "I . . . I've got something in my eye," and dabbed at it with a minute handkerchief.

"I'll take it out for you." Possessively, he guided her toward the light. There was a twinkle in his eye, but the expression on his face was professionally concerned.

"I . . . I think it's out now," she said.

"We're glad to see you back, Miss Seymour. I guess you gathered that. The kids . . ."

"Oh, the kids," she said hastily, embarrassed. "You know how they are. I just got here. Is Ellen about?"

"Ellen is everywhere about. She hasn't lighted anywhere since we got here. I think we might find her out front."

Fabienne said, "Let's go look."

As they came down the aisle to their seats in the front row, the lights went down and the curtain rose jerkily.

The play was on. The play was a dramatization of episodes from the lives of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. It was played by a cast that ranged in years from four to twelve, by a cast that spoke with the tongue of foreign lads, and spoke with the childish stilted phrases that were a delight in themselves. Fabienne felt proud.

It was over very quickly, too quickly. Because Bill Mallory sat by her side and because she was aware of the pleasure in his face, his simple delight that she, too, felt in the children's performance. Once she looked at him and whispered, "You like them, don't you?"

"Kids are more interesting than people," he said, smiling. "I work with them all the time, you know."

"Do you?" she said, and returned her gaze to the stage.

The play was over and they rose to stand for the playing of the national anthem.

Fabienne dropped her purse.

She bent to pick it up

Bill bent at the same time.

Her soft hair brushed his cheek. His hand fumbled with the purse, touched hers. A flame ran up her arm, into her throat and made her face feel hot, her eyes burn.

"Thanks," she murmured, and turned away from him quickly before he could see how his touch had affected her. She said, "Oh, there's Ellen."

Ellen was coming toward them, holding out both hands to Fabienne.

"Fabienne! You came! I knew you would! Wasn't it wonderful? The children did it for you. You've no idea how you've been missed. I haven't had the heart to tell them that you'd left for good. The older girls have been asking for you and making plans to show you when you come back," Ellen chattered as she led them out of the hall.

"The older girls?" Fabienne asked.

"The sixteen-year-olds. Wait until you see them. They're wearing their hair like yours. There's a wave of saddle shoes and sweater-and-skirt costumes sweeping the entire neighborhood." (Fabienne had adopted the collegiate costume for her work) "and they're even trying to talk like you. You've supplanted Garbo and Ginger Rogers as their ideals, my dear."

Bill said, "I'll buy you girls a drink later. I think I'll drop in and see how Hopkins is getting along and pick you up later."

When he had gone, Ellen said, "We need you, Fabienne. Mrs. Cheeseborough has promised us a gift of fifteen hundred dollars and we think we'll use it on some project for the older girls. They're quite a problem. They're at an age when children's pursuits are beneath them, and they don't want to take part in the programs of their parents. We like to keep the old ones adjusted to their own old world lives, but the young ones want to be part of the new world."

"What do you plan to do?" Fabienne asked.

"Find some way to keep these youngsters from going to dance halls and cheap amusement places by offering them something more entertaining. We thought we'd spend the money to put a dance floor in the gymnasium and plan dances and competitive games, something whereby boys and girls can get together — away from street corners. What do you say to this?"

"I? Why, I think it's a great idea."

"There's a catch to it, Fabienne. The girls don't really take to it. They think it's a form of being watched over. But if you—whom they adore—were to back up the movement and be sort of the spirit behind it, they'd follow whatever you do."

"Really I . . . oh, Ellen, we've had this out before," she wailed.

Ellen's face was troubled, but she said, "I know we have and I wouldn't want you to come back unless you came willingly. But you have so much to give, Fabienne, and these girls have so little! I thought you might feel the way I do about it. However—" she broke off and smiled. "How long are you going to stay in New York?"

Fabienne took a cigaret from her jeweled case and tapped it thoughtfully. She was thinking: I can't stay and I won't let Ellen urge me. There were a lot of parties scheduled for the holidays in Maryland, parties that she was looking forward to.

("YOU HAVE SO MUCH AND THEY HAVE SO LITTLE.")

She had dances and drags and cocktail parties that she'd promised to go to. Dances in the high-ceilinged rooms where she'd danced so many, many times. Miss Kate and Miss Viola Lee in their lavender shawls. The black boys playing slow waltzes back of the palms. The miles and miles of buffets with salads and hot breads. They'd been there for decades and they'd be there for decades more —unchanged.

And the days. The nice, lazy, well-ordered days. Breakfast before the fire in the library. Molly brushing her hair. Lavender-scented sheets to sleep between each night.

She couldn't leave that and come back to hurried breakfasts, to eight hours a day wiping little noses running about . . .

"Miss Seymour! Excuse me, please, Miss Chapman, but can I come in?" It was Rosie Riccio, a broad smile on her swarthy, pretty face, who spoke, interrupting Fabienne's train of thought

At first, Fabienne didn't recognize her. Gone were the patches of rouge on her olive cheeks Gone was the bold smudge of lipstick, the oily curls. Rosie wore her hair in a roll, the way that Fabienne wore it when she was at work Gone were the silly, cheap sandals and the sleazy dress Low heels and a little sweater suit replaced them.

"Rosie!" Fabienne said, delighted.

"I just wanted to tell you how glad we are you're back."

"I'm glad to be back, Rosie. Will you call a meeting of the girls in your group for Monday night at eight o'clock?"

Ellen said, "Good girl, Fab!"

"You've got me hypnotized, Ellen Chapman. I hadn't the slightest intention of staying."

"You'll never be sorry, Fab. The bread on the waters has never failed to come back. . . . Come along now. We'll pick up Bill He'll be delighted to hear this."

"He will?" Fabienne said in a small voice.

"Of course he will. He's been talking about you ever since you left. He wants you to work with him."

"In the clinic?" Fabienne asked, setting her mouth in a firm line.

"Oh, no! Bill's working awfully hard on some choral groups, getting ready for Christmas carols. He needs you, too, Fabienne. But I warn you, right now, it will take a lot of your time. They rehearse every night."

Working with Bill every night! It was sweet to anticipate, but it was dangerous If this was bread on the waters, it was bitter bread.

You May Be Mighty Glad You Have It Handy

When a cold strikes, and you want something to relieve the misery—the choice you make is mighty important. You shouldn't buy blindly. You don't want unknown, untried medications.

JUST CONSIDER THESE FACTS

Vicks VapoRub is more than just first in popular choice . . . It is more widely used than all other medications of its kind put together.

What's more, this growing preference for VapoRub keeps on year after year. Millions of the mothers who use it today, learned about it first from their mothers who even in those days considered VapoRub a family standby.

There must be a reason. No medication can keep on holding the esteem and loyalty of many millions —millions who naturally expect results—unless they are satisfied with the results they get.

You ought to be ready to act right away, when a cold strikes. So get a jar of Vicks VapoRub today. Have it on hand. You never can tell when you'll be mighty glad you have it.

NUPTIAL AFFAIRS BRIGHTEN OUTLOOK

Two Recent Marriages Announced Today; Donna Pritchard, Walter Isenberg Wedded Saturday Night at Parsonage.

ONE THING that is certain in the social world is the announcement of marriages and engagements attendant upon the approaching holidays. In past weeks a number of nuptial events have come to our attention, and today there are others.

Mrs. A. R. Pritchard, 20 Lexington avenue, has announced the marriage of her daughter, Donna, to Walter L. Isenberg. The wedding was solemnized at 10:30 p. m. on Dec. 2 by Rev. David N. Roller in the First Presbyterian church parsonage.

The bride is a graduate of Butler high school, while Mr. Isenberg was graduated from high school in Altoona, Pa. He is now local manager for the Fuller Brush company at Newark.

The ceremony was solemnized at the St. John's Evangelical church in Dover by Rev. H. G. Bartell on Nov. 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Baehr are now at home at the Third avenue address. He is employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. The marriage was recently announced in Bucyrus by Mr. and Mrs Henry Baehr, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom

There Are Two Ways to Get at Constipation

Yes, and only two ways—before and after it happens! Instead of enduring those dull, tired, headachy days and then having to take an emergency medicine—why not KEEP regular with Kellogg's All-Bran? You can, if your constipation is the kind millions have—due to the lack of "bulk" in modern diets. For All-Bran goes right to the cause of this trouble by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this toasted nutritious cereal every day—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if your life isn't a whole lot brighter! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Sunday Ceremony Performed; Couple Will Make Home Here

WEARING a moss green street length dress made with a high neckline, and gold necklace, bracelet sleeves and a low waistline, Miss Betty Smalley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Smalley, Hayesville, walked up the aisle of the Hayesville Methodist church at 8:30 a. m. Sunday morning on her father's arm. She became the bride of Carl J. Schmahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Schmahl, 392 Central avenue.

With her street costume the bride wore a matching hat and accessories in brown, and a bouquet of sweet peas, Talisman and yellow roses tied with brown satin ribbon. Her only ornament was a gold bracelet, the gift of the bridegroom.

Rev. F. L. Mitzel read the ceremony, and Mrs. Elva Hout, Mansfield, played "Song of the Evening Star," "Midsummer Night's Dream," "I Love You Truly," and the traditional wedding marches. Just before the Lohengrin selection she played "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" on the chimes.

The bride was attended by Mrs David J. Sigler, Ashland, matron of honor, who was attired in a street length dress of burnt sugar shade made with a high neckline, pleated skirt and adorned with a gold necklace. Her flowers were yellow chrysanthemums and Talisman roses.

The church was decorated with hemlock boughs for the ceremony, and the altar table was centered with mahogany chrysanthemums flanked by lighted cathedral candles.

After their return from a brief southern trip Mr. and Mrs. Schmahl will be home at the Central avenue address.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Smalley wore a peacock blue gown, while Mrs. Schmahl was attired in black. Both wore corsages of gardenias.

The bride attended the Hayesville high school, and has been employed at the Farmers bank at Ashland, while Mr. Schmahl attended Mansfield Senior high school, and is an employe of the Isaly Dairy company.

Recipe For Married Happiness

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"We've been married a little over a year," a bride confides to me in a letter brimming over with common sense.

"As a matter of fact, we're terribly happy, but I'm not taking a single chance. I'm working hard to make a go of our marriage. Please don't think that after a year I'm utterly blind to little faults of my husband. He's fond of argument, but I never argue back. And usually he comes out and says he was sorry for laying down the law.

"I do all my own work and expect to do it for the next three months, when I'm going to have in a part-timer because we're happily expecting the stork. Never, since we've been married, have I rushed home at the last minute and thrown a chop or a frankfurter into the frying pan and served it. Dinner is my husband's principal meal and I've made it a rule to see that he gets a good, well-balanced ration.

"And please let me say that the Miscellaneous Publication 216, "Meat Dishes at Low Cost," recommended in your budget, has been extremely helpful. The house is neat, always, and if he strews his nawspapers and leaves cigar and cigaret ashes where he shouldn't leave them, I don't raise Cain with him, though I often feel like it.

"When Bill proposes an outing, I always go to see friends, go to the movies, take an automobile trip, though often I'd prefer to stay home, especially since the stork is going to favor me.

"Bill's friends are always welcome, even if they do not seem especially attractive to me. About one night a week he has the boys in to play cards. Sometimes they bring their wives and this necessitates supper. But I always see that they have something, even if it's only beer and sandwiches with a cup of good coffee afterwards.

"And I flatter Bill. You know that men are just great big boys and they go a long way on a word of appreciation. So far my recipe has worked famously. I shall write to you again next year, when we have another member of the family to consider. And I know, Miss Fairfax, that's the most difficult time of all. A baby takes up a lot of room, and his properties are likely to be all over the house. But I'm going to try my best not to have them underfoot or hanging on the back of chairs. And so no more at present from Happy Bride."

This girl has grasped the important fact that happy marriages don't, of course, just happen. They are the joint creation of a husband and wife who are determined that their homes shall be a permanently happy place. In few instances is the husband's share in the great life adventure as important as the wives. Unless she has a thoroughly impossible husband, it is the woman who has by far the greater chance of making a marriage successful or the reverse.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, December 6.

Judging by the adverse lunar aspects of this day, there may be difficulties, stubborn obstacles, delays or postponements, to be met with patience, determination and sound sense. The latter may be supplemented by a quickened intuition or perhaps a sudden "hunch," which may help break up a static or critical situation. The advice of superiors may likewise prove profitable.

Those whose birthday it is are on the brink of a year in which they must exercise resolution, perseverance and sagacity in order to vanquish difficult, trying and obstinate situations. Congestions and impediments call for decisive handling.

A child born on this day may have certain handicaps in its early life, but these impediments may be vanquished by patience, fortitude and determination. Its superiors may co-operate.

Tomorrow's Problem.

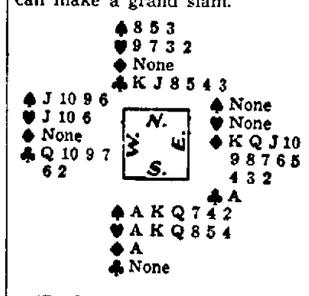
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

NO SHUT-OUTS CERTAIN

AN ORIGINAL bid of four is usually high enough to shut the opponents out of the bidding, and it is almost never that an opening call of five fails to do it. But when a freak has been dealt, even an initial call of a small slam may not prove adequate, especially if one of your opponents thinks he can make a grand slam.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

Harold M. Cole, assistant to District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York, displayed on this deal some of the acumen that qualifies him for his ticklish job. After North's pass, in a rubber game at the Union League club, East had bid 6-Diamonds.

Mr. Cole in the South realized that such a call when vulnerable could show nothing but the top or tops in clubs plus diamonds which were solid except for the ace. He decided that he wanted a grand slam for his side, in whichever suit his partner fitted best. Bidding 6-Hearts might be left in, even though his partner was short, and the same applied to 6-Spades.

After a bit of study he made a most brilliant call, which upon reflection is obviously the only right one, 7-diamonds. His partner could not take this out into anything but the majors, so bid 7-Hearts, which East doubled, then leading the club ace. Three rounds of trumps were followed by three of spades and a ruff of a fourth spade, setting up the dummy.

Of course, a diamond lead would have beaten this contract, but who was East to lead that suit when he had a singleton club ace?

That amusing story of the Aldrich family, "What A Life," the screen version of Jackie Coogan's stage play which was presented at the Madison theater a short time ago, returns to the Madison Wednesday for a two-day engagement, starring Jackie Cooper and Betty Field. As in the stage play, the story deals with that delightful adolescent, Henry Aldrich, and his everyday problems. The picture dramatizes the dynamic story of Mexico's struggle for democracy. "Heaven With a Barbed Wire Fence" is the title of the other picture at the Majestic. This is a story of a boy who sets out to make a place for himself in the world and his experiences. Jean Rogers, Raymond Walburn, Marjorie Rambeau, Glenn Ford and Nicholas Conte are in the cast.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"If I know Madge, she won't develop any jitters," she said. "So calm your righteous indignation, my bucko boy. And I fervently pray you're a true prophet when you say nothing more's going to happen, on this trek, at least."

Both prayers and prophecy materialized. Our journey to the farm, from the minute Edith, escorted by Harry, came out of the hotel, to our turning in at the gateway to the farm yard, was blissfully uneventful. Indeed, she, Dicky and I spent most of our time sleeping—or pretending to slumber.

And then, at last, the beloved, familiar lines of the farm house came into view. We turned in at the gate, now heavily guarded, as was the rest of the farm, and then went into the house to be rapturouosly welcomed by Junior and Roderick, in pajamas, bathrobes and slippers, and more quietly but no less enthusiastically by my mother-in-law, Katharine. Mary and Noel, while Katie and Jim with glowing faces hovered in the background. Harry had telephoned from Southampton that we were coming, and the only face which held anything else than joy and relief at our safe arrival was that of my mother-in-law; it was furrowed by anxiety.

"If you only had let us know before," she was saying. "Where we're going to find anything in the house fit to eat this hour of the night, I haven't the slightest idea."

From the rear of the room Katie gave me a beseeching look, and her eyes told me that she had ample resources from which to draw for one of her inimitable, delicious warm suppers. I knew that she did not dare to voice her assurance in the face of my mother-in-law's dictum, but Junior had no such inhibitions, and from his post with Roderick, as near to Dicky and me as he could get, he voiced cheering news.

"Oh! there's lots to eat, Granzie," he said importantly. "There's almost a whole cake, and two whole pies, and a pan of Katie's special baked beans, and a half a baked ham, and—"

"Say no more, Junior," Harry Underwood implored, "or I shall swoon with ecstacy. Katie, I implore you, how long will it take you to put one of your snacks on the table? Just a teeny, weeny snack is all I ask, provided it be yours."

"Shoost so soon as eet take baby sheeps to vag eets tail, Meester Underwood," she said. "I go feex, right away."

She dashed for the kitchen, and Dicky, ever resourceful, spiked his mother's patent attempt to follow her with a query even more absorbing to her.

"Where's Faith, Mother?" he asked quickly. "I don't see her in the welcoming line-up."

"Richard Graham!" she intoned. "If that isn't just like you. Where on earth should the blessed baby girl be but sound asleep in her crib at this hour? How on earth these boys are here, I can't imagine. They went to bed hours ago."

'I can tell you, Granzie," Roderick said importantly. "I was thirsty, and I got up to get me a drink of water. Then the telephone rang, and I knew it must be something important because it was so late. Then I heard Aunt Katharine telling you that the folks would be here in 15 minutes, and I scooted back to our room. I woke Jun up. You didn't think we could stay in bed, do you, with Mums and Dad coming home?"

"No, I suppose that would be too much to ask," she said, and then the voice of Miss Whitlock, the nurse, sounded from the doorway.

"Your father is awake, Mrs. Graham. He wishes to see you all immediately, but I have persuaded him to wait for ten minutes until a potion I have given him shall take effect. Will you come up then, please, you and Mr. Graham, and Mr. and Mrs. Underwood? He wishes to see all of you."

Norway, Sweden, Denmark Set to Explore Means of Ending Finland Invasion.

for a secret session of parliament next week to talk about war supplies.

Despite further shipping losses, authoritative sources indicated Britain has a new secret weapon which is "very satisfactory" in combatting German magnetic mines.

King George VI followed the World war example of his father, George V, with a visit to British troops in France.

Artillery fire enlivened an otherwise dull day on the western front, but there were no military developments of any magnitude.

Nazi Artillery Opens Up on French.

PARIS—(UNS)—Short German artillery barrages centering on the Blies and Moselle river areas of the western front hammered French positions today.

At the same time the Germans launched four raids against French advance outposts in the Wissembourg sector seeking prisoners for information. All the raids were halted and the Germans suffered heavy losses, according to reports received in Paris.

The raids began at 2 a. m., and lasted until dawn, each of them creeping across the no man's land at the same point. One was blasted by French artillery, another was encircled, the third was cut down by automatic fire and the fourth, failing to attack, carried out a reconnaissance maneuver.

Several deep German air reconnaissance flights were carried out and there was some aerial patrol work along the front, but no air battles developed.

Sweden Calls Troops For 'Wartime' Service.

STOCKHOLM—(AP)—Sweden, in increasing alarm at the extent of the Soviet Russian incursion into Finland, called more troops to the colors today and for the first time acknowledged "partial mobilization."

About 40,000 men, including artillerymen, engineers and commissary detachments, were ordered into service, bringing to about 150,000 the number under arms—as against a normal standing force of 20,000.

The troops are "for "wartime service," published notices said. Previous military orders referred only to "preparedness."

The number of Swedes enlisting in volunteer corps for service with the Finns passed 1,000 today, and more than 1,000,000 kronur ($240,000) was subscribed by citizens for their benefit.

Sweden herself, however, continued to direct her efforts toward neutrality, one official informant remarking, "we may be wealthy, but our forces are too small to send to the aid of another country."

Finnish refugees reaching Haparanda, on the Swedish side of the frontier, related today they were machine-gunned by Russian planes which they rushed out to greet near Petsamo in the mistaken belief they were Red Cross craft.

Newspapers and citizens' organizations in Stockholm are gathering clothes and raising funds for the refugees, whose numbers are increasing rapidly.

Russian Bombers Raid Salmijaervi.

KIRKENES, Norway (At the Finnish Frontier)—(AP)—Three Soviet Russian bombers raided Salmijaervi and the nearby area today in a renewal of aerial operations in the war on Finland.

The bombers could be seen from Kirkenes, and detonations reverberated across the border, but it was not learned immediately what damage and casualties resulted.

Properties of the International Nickel company of Canada Ltd in the Salmijaervi area.

At the same time, reports of continued Russian landings in the Petsamo region, northernmost Finland, about 30 miles east northeast of Salmijaervi, were received.

These reports said Russian warships were observed in Petsamo fjord this morning. These were believed to be conveying troopships bringing troops from the Russian Arctic garrisons of Alexandrovsk, Murmansk and Kola.

It was reported the Russians first attempted to land at Linahamari but failed. Later they were reported landing on both sides of the mouth of Petsamo fjord. The Finns apparently were unable to prevent this, but were believed to be waiting until the invaders reach Petsamo, where strong defense positions have been built. Petsamo is Finland's chief Arctic port.

Strong detachments of Finns were moving northward from Rovaniemi toward Petsamo.

BUND LEADER SENT TO PRISON

Kuhn Forfeited Citizenship as Judge Gives Him Term of 2½ to 5 Years.

one year and eight months with time off for good behavior—if he behaves.

A little paler, a little thinner after a week's confinement in the Tombs, Kuhn took his medicine stoically.

"I don't intend to make a martyr out of this man," the court explained in specifying concurrent service of the term imposed.

The jury debated many hours before finding Kuhn guilty on the Camp charges and the court apparently took cognizance of that hesitancy by suspending sentence.

Kuhn's conviction, a triumph of some degree for the office of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, came as Dewey was preparing to make his first speech for the Republican presidential nomination in Minneapolis.

A year ago Dewey, in his campaign for governor of New York, bitterly attacked Kuhn and the bund.

Pleading for leniency, Kuhn's counsel, Peter A. Sabbatino, rehashed all his trial charges and inferences of political and social persecution.

Sabbatino, whose enthusiasm led him into the field of contempt early in the trial, was told by the court that he must return next Wednesday to be judged for his conduct.

Sabbatino offered an apology for any intemperate remarks he might have made and for action of his offensive to the court. However the court repeated his order.

Judge Wallace during the course of his discussion of the case suggested that action for perjury should be taken against James Wheeler-Hill, secretary of the Bund and Willy Luedtke, a Bund worker.

Prosecutor Herman McCarthy reported that his office was already preparing a case against the two.

Wheeler-Hill's testimony in several appearances on the stand, varied considerably. Luedtke testified that he carried the disputed $500 to Murray's office and was given a receipt by Murray's associate.

Less than a handful of spectators were in court when sentence was passed on Kuhn. Mrs. Elsa Kuhn, the fuehrer's wife who had said she was sticking by him despite the Camp affair, was not one of those present.

Santa and the TALKING DOLL

by SIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR: Lightning has given a great feast for the fairy world to celebrate the twenty-first birthday of his son who sets out on adventures with a silver flute that will win him friends, and a black opal that will bring him trouble.

CHAPTER TWO

The King of Westphalia.

GREAT buildings crashed about the ears of people the night Lightning gave a birthday party for his son. The arrow of lightning he had hurled at the witch cut through the sky and down to the Kingdom of Westphalia.

Now the King of Westphalia was a very kind king. But he was very lonesome because he was very shy. He found it hard to talk to his pople but often he sent them great baskets of food from the castle.

So this night he sat alone in his castle and mourned that so many of his subjects had lost their homes. But the fairies that lived in his woods flew into his study and lighted on the table nar him.

"Oh, King," they said, "you were chosen among all men to rule this realm. Is it not right then that you comfort your pople tonight?"

"Yes," said the King. "Lead me."

So the fairies led him down the storm wet road to a little tavern where groups of peasants stood with their caps in their hands. Inside he went, and there knelt a strong, young man beside a bench. On it lay his young wife and in her arms was a new baby.

Santa's Advice.

When they saw the King their faces lighted up. "Out of the storm, Sire," said the peasant, "came this little son. Our home is gone, but we are happy."

The King knelt and picked up the child and wrapped it in his red robe. It gurgled and smiled. The King said, "If your home is gone live with me until a new one is built."

So the King and the young peasant and his family went to the castle. There they lived until the peasant's new home was built. But when they left again the King was alone and sad.

The fairies saw; and finally the Fairy Queen visited the King to say "It must be so. Each family has its own hearth stone. None can turn back the dark night hours for a lonely human but that which belongs to him. So we must find some one. We will go to the greatest gift-giver of all, Santa Claus, and ask him for advice."

But when they left again the King was alone and sad.

So the fairies flew up, up, out of the woods and across the sky until they came to a long, low house on a snowy hill where candles burned in the windows. They tapped on a window: once, twice, three times. It opened and there stood Santa, shouting, "Come in, come in."

The Errand.

The fairies fluttered down on his shoulders and he walked with them to his big chair by the fireplace where Mrs. Santa sat knitting and smiling a welcome.

"You have come on some errand," said Santa. "What is it?" So the Queen of Fairies told him about the kind and lonesome King of Westphalia. Santa listened and looked so sympathetic that Mrs. Santa worried for fear the fairies had made him sad. But when the fairies had finished their story Santa looked as though he had already made up his mind.

He said, "This will be a delicate task to make the Westphalian King a gift that will really melt away his loneliness. But once long ago I tried my hand at a doll for just such another person.

"She could learn as humans learn—poetry, music and stories. And at midnight she could talk to her owner, and listen. She was a great comfort because she was awake when everyone else slept. I shall try to make another such doll tomorrow. And at midnight you may fly off with her to your King."

TOMORROW: The new doll.

duction during the entire 12 months of the year."

Although declining to comment definitely on the outlook for 1940, Stephens said "as yet there is nothing in evidence to cause me to feel that there should be any let-down in the company's volume of business for the coming year."

Salaried employes except those hired after Sept. 30, will be paid $25. Those whose employment started in October will receive $20, in November 15, and December $10.

Joseph E. Blahnik, former University of Michigan football star and manager of the Montgomery Ward store, was elected head coach of the Downtown Coaches club at an organization meeting attended by 40 members at the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night.

Others elected to offices in the newly organized club are Ned Brooks, assistant head coach; Sherman Glessner, secretary, and Dean Eckert, treasurer. Tom Scott, George Smith and Rev. Grover E. Swoyer are the directors of the club.

The club members also voted to hold regular meetings on Tuesday nights. The date of the next meeting, however, will be announced later.

BOOSTS BUDGET FOR ADVERTISING

Westinghouse Announces 45 Per Cent Increase For 1940.

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company will increase its national newspaper advertising on Mansfield-made refrigerators by 45 per cent in 1940, the 150 distributors representatives attending the annual sales conference here today were told. Magazine advertising is scheduled for a 50 per cent increase.

Roger H. Bolin, advertising manager, made the announcement on increased advertising, which will cover refrigerators, ranges, roasters and irons. It will be a year-round program, Bolin said.

NEEDS $800

Shelby Community Chest Drive Short of Goal.

SHELBY—With less than $800 still needed to reach the goal of $14,000 for the Shelby Community Chest drive, drive officials said today that they "hoped" the few remaining reports yet to come in would swell the fund over the goal.

A total of $13,248 has been reported by the drive workers, Orin Pfahlor, secretary-treasurer of the drive, announced today. The goal of $14,000 for the drive this year is $1,000 less than the goal set up for the drive a year ago.

Some 100 workers took part in the one-day drive that was held last month. The funds will be used to help support the five major community activities in Shelby. They are the Shelby Memorial hospital, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Shelby summer playgrounds and the Public Health league.

JURY TO HEAR NEW EVIDENCE

Doctor Held In Death of Wife 4 Years Ago In California.

LOS ANGELES—(UNS)—The Los Angeles county grand jury today was to be given new facts said by District Attorney Buron Fitts to have been uncovered in connection with the death four years ago of Mrs. Doris Dazey, wife of Dr. George K. Dazey, prominent Santa Monica physician.

Dr. Dazey was arrested by the district attorney Sunday on suspicion of murder. He denied his wife had been murdered, as charged by Fitts.

Shortly after Mrs. Dazey was found dead beneath her automobile in October, 1935, authorities asserted she had died from carbon monoxide fumes. It was believed she fainted, falling almost directly beneath the exhaust pipe.

him to reimburse the government for salary already received.

Postmaster General James A. Farley stepped in here and asserted it would be "most unfair" to remove Sharick from office. He argued the postoffice department did not call upon a congressman for a recommendation but merely states it will "consider any representations" which the congressman may care to make "regarding the character or residence of the eligibles."

Farley asked the civil service board to review the case. The commission did so and reaffirmed its previous decision—that Sharick's appointment violates the commission rules.

Another complication entered when the comptroller general's office tried to shut off Sharick's salary. It was found that in small postoffices, the postmaster pays himself by withholding his salary from the postal receipts. Sharick continued to draw his compensation and the comptroller general could not stop him.

Thereupon the department of justice was asked to bring legal action to stop Sharick's pay and recover the back salary. Sharick was appointed April 7, 1938. The justice department ruled, however, that it could not enter a suit against Sharick because the action would be indefensible."

Sharick, who was appointed over Delos E. Funk and Robert Forteny, first and second civil service eligibles, receives about $700 a year since Nankin is a fourth class postoffice.

into a new role. Mussolini as party to an Italo-German alliance of convenience was a Samson shorn of his locks. Mussolini as a more or less free agent again is a figure at vast importance in the European upheaval.

As an independent neutral Il Duce undoubtedly exercises greater influence than if he actually were a combatant and definitely committed to one side. He can throw his weight where he will, and since that is formidable but untried it commands the respect which the unknown so often does exact.

The question of whether Mussolini may slash all ties with Hitler and actually join England and France against Germany is one of the big and important "ifs" of the moment. It is especially vital in view of the activities of the Russo-German combine.

Il Duce is the only one who might answer the query about his future affiliation, and it's possible that even he couldn't give a definite statement right now. However, the belief is very general in Europe that he has been leaning toward the allies for some time and it certainly would cause no surprise to see him cast his lot with them.
